

THE CAMPAIGN FOR NORTHEASTERN UNIVERSITY

empowerreader

Northeastern students are not known for playing it safe. They engage with the world to unravel societal challenges, to surmount conventional boundaries, and to develop critical thinking skills. Our students put ideas into action--and energize themselves and each other in the process.

Last November, I appointed Matt Bilotti, DMSB'15, and Caitlin Morelli, SSH'16, as our inaugural Global Officers, charging them with traveling the world for six months and strengthening Northeastern's international network. They embarked on their journeys in January and are identifying global co-op connections and expanding relationships with alumni, parents, and friends.

Matt and Caitlin ask for your engagement. Advancing our experiential learning model is a central thrust of Empower: The Campaign for Northeastern, and you--our closest ambassadors--can make a difference. Please join me in supporting this initiative. Meet with Matt and Caitlin overseas, connect them to your professional and personal networks, and recommend transformational adventures for them to discover.

Thank you for emboldening our students to power change in the world.

President

Kristin Kim, BHS'12

"Alumni chapter events present great opportunities to reconnect with Northeastern. While alumni are diverse in our fields of study and experiences, there is a powerful common thread that instantly bonds all of us."

Who empowered you?

Gerard LoPorto, LA'73

"My first co-op advisor, Corinne Reppucci--she was Miss Cianci then--was instrumental in getting me a co-op I loved. That was the start of a wonderful career, one that gave me the 'global mindset' so essential for our students today."
