Class Overview

This is a class for new users of NC LIVE. You will need to be comfortable with the basics of using a computer, including using the mouse and keyboard, opening a program, and turning the computer on and off. Additionally, you will need to know the basics of navigating the Internet.

Today, we will be exploring the wealth of resources that are available to North Carolina residents with a library card. These resources come from NC LIVE, a statewide online library available to public libraries and public universities. We'll overview a few of the more commonly used and interesting resources, plus discuss how to find more NC LIVE resources that might fit your needs or interests.

Please let the instructor know if you have questions or concerns before the class, or as we go along.

You Will Learn How To:

Access the resources available on NC LIVE	Find a list of resources available on NC LIVE	Check out and download audiobooks
Stream PBS videos	Find consumer health information	Locate newspaper and magazine articles
Learn a language	Look up business and investment information	Find study guides and research tools
Discover more NC LIVE resources!

THE BASICS

What is NC LIVE?

NC LIVE is an online library service created and maintained by representatives from the NC Community Colleges, the NC Independent Colleges and Universities, the NC Public Library Directors Association, the University of North Carolina, and the State Library of North Carolina. It provides access to a wide variety of online databases, tools, and electronic books to public library users and students across the state. Resources range from career and business information to genealogical and ancestry information to automotive manuals and consumer reports. All of the resources available on NC LIVE are designed to be accessible from your home computer, but you can also use library computers to access them.

The screenshot displays the NC LIVE website. At the top, the logo for NC LIVE .org is shown with the tagline "It's a library at your fingertips." Navigation links include "Browse", "Search", and "Need Help?". A "Questions? Chat Now!" button is powered by NCKnows. The main content area features a "Search" section with a search bar, a "Go!" button, and a "Quick Search" dropdown. Below this is a "Search by Title" section with a link to find a journal, magazine, or newspaper by title. The "Browse" section is divided into categories: Articles, Audio, eBooks, Images, and Videos. A "Popular at my Library" list includes Academic Search Complete, Business Source Complete, eBooks on EBSCOhost, MasterFILE Complete, and CINAHL w/Full Text. The "NC LIVE News" section mentions technology for teens, audio books for Mac, and planned website maintenance on Sunday, 1/29, 6-7 AM. The "What is NC LIVE?" section describes the service as providing free access to eBooks, audio books, videos, online magazines, newspapers, journals, and more. A featured article highlights "Read the full text of The Wall Street Journal FREE through NC LIVE!". The "Browse" section lists various categories: Books & Literature (novels, poetry, criticism, plays, Worldcat), Business & Management (small business, company info, Morningstar, WSJ), Career, Jobs & Test Preparation (ASVAB, SAT, GRE, GED, resumes, cover letters), Current Issues (pro/con essay, immigration, global warming), Data & Demographics, History & Biography (WWII, Civil War, presidents, world history), Hobbies & Interests (books, auto repair, gardening), Homework Help (encyclopedias, magazines, test prep, writing help), Images & Art (CAMIO, museum images, paintings, sculptures), and Journals, Magazines, & Newspapers.

How to Access NC LIVE

To access NC LIVE, visit www.nclive.org. You will be able to browse through the lists of available resources without having to sign in with your library card.

If you click on an NC LIVE resource, you will be taken to a log-in screen. First, you will be prompted to select your library:

The screenshot shows the NC LIVE website header with the logo and navigation links. Below the header is a blue bar with 'Browse', 'Search', and 'Need Help?'. A 'Questions? Chat Now!' button is on the left. The main content area is titled 'Login' and contains 'Step 1: Please choose your library'. It features a 'Library Name:' label, a dropdown menu with 'Please select your library', and a 'Choose your Library' instruction. A 'Next' button is at the bottom. A link for 'NC Trust Pilot participants' is also present.

If you have a Durham County Library card, select Durham County. If you have Carrboro Cybrary card, then select Orange County. If you have a Chapel Hill Library card, choose Chapel Hill Public Library. Then click “Next.” This will take you to a page where you need to enter your library card number. After doing this and clicking “Login,” you should be able to access the resource.

The screenshot shows the NC LIVE website header and navigation bar. The main content area is titled 'Login' and contains 'Step 2: Please enter your library card number'. It includes a message: 'Accessing some NC LIVE resources requires a library card number. If you have any questions regarding your access to NC LIVE, please contact Hyconeechee Regional Library using the information below.' Below this is a 'Library Card Number:' label and a text input field. A 'Login' button is at the bottom. A link for 'NC Trust Pilot participants' is also present.

Depending on the library card required resource you select, you might see something like the following screen. Just enter your library card number and click the “Proceed” or “Submit” button!

Navigating NC LIVE

The NC LIVE homepage is the best way to access all of the resources available through this great service. Though the library website links to some of the more commonly used resources, the NC LIVE homepage provides a much larger variety of resources at your fingertips. Let's take a look at how we can find resources from the NC LIVE homepage.

AUDIOBOOKS

One of the newest resources available on NC LIVE allows you to check out and download audiobooks from the comfort of home!

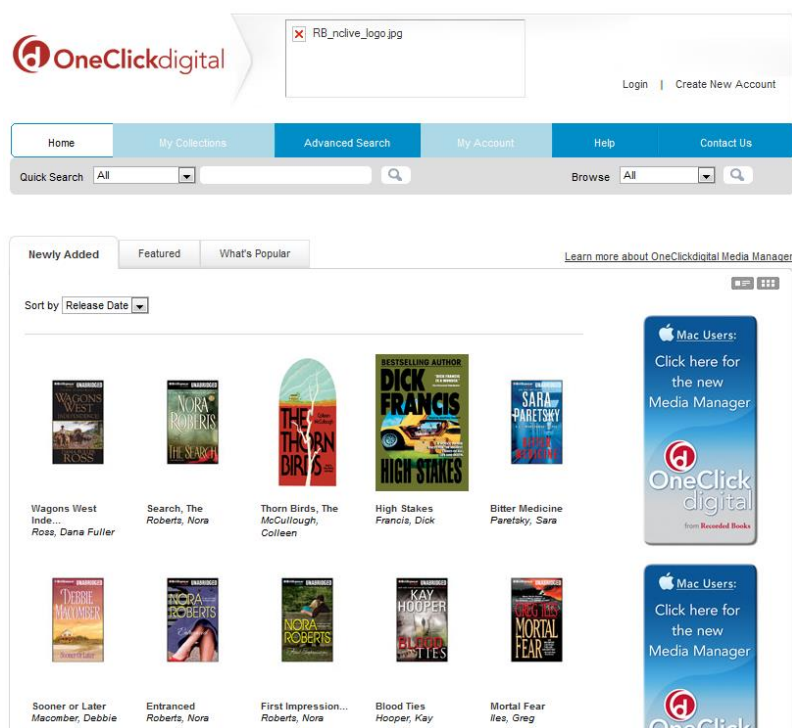

You can access it from the NC LIVE homepage:

OneClick Digital

The service that provides audiobooks for checkout online through NC LIVE is called OneClick Digital. You can listen to audiobooks that you download from OneClick Digital on your PC or Mac, iPod, iPhone, iPad, Zen Digital Media Player, Sandisk MP3 player, or Sony Walkman. You can also listen to audiobooks on most MP3 or WMA players, but they are not explicitly supported by the OneClick Digital Media Manager (the program that will help transfer your audiobooks to your device).

When you click on a link to the OneClick Digital website, you'll see this page:

From here, you can see the newest audiobooks, perform a search for specific audiobooks, create an account, and download the OneClick Digital Media Manager, which will allow you to check out and download books onto your computer.

If you click on a title, you'll be taken to a page with more information about the book:

The Details tab will give you general info, the Summary tab will tell you about the book's content, and the Chapters tab displays the length in minutes of each chapter.

Under the image of the book cover, a list of platforms that this audiobook will play on is shown (in this case, both Windows and Apple are supported).

At the bottom of the page, you can see how other patrons have rated this audiobook, out of five stars.

If an audiobook is available for check-out, there will be a dropdown menu and two buttons on the right side of the screen. You can select the amount of time you would like to check out the book for (7 days or less), then checkout the audiobook. If you'd like to save the book for later, click on "Add to Wishlist."

If the book is currently checked out by someone else, the dropdown menu and the "Checkout Now!" button will not appear. The only option you will have is "Add to Wishlist"—this is the same as placing a hold, and you will receive an e-mail when the title is available to be checked out again. It will automatically be checked out to you at that point.

In order to check out an audiobook, you'll need to create an account and download the OneClick Digital Media Manager. The first time you click "Checkout Now!" you will be prompted to create an account—choose a username and password that you'll remember. Then, you will be taken to a page to download and install the Media Manager, which will allow you to download audiobooks now and in the future.

OneClickdigital Media Manager - Easily download and transfer your digital content, with One Click OneClickdigital Media Manager is a free program that handles the downloading and transferring of all your favorite audio titles to your portable listening device. It also works as a fully functional player if you want to listen to the audiobook on your computer. It's as easy as One Click to download and transfer books using OneClickdigital Media Manager.

Follow the on-screen prompts to install the Media Manager on your computer.

The first time you open the program, you will need to log-in with your account information and choose your library.

The interface for the program will look something like this:

You can see all your checked out items from your home screen, which will also allow you to renew your audiobooks with one click. You can listen to the audiobooks right here, through the Media Manager on your computer, or transfer the items to a media device. If you are using an Apple product, you will do this through iTunes (it will automatically open alongside the Media Manager); if you are using another type of audio device, you can transfer directly from the Media Manager.

If you get stuck, OneClick Digital also offers a great set of video tutorials on how to get started downloading and listening to audiobooks!

Class Divided

One day in 1968, Jane Elliott, a teacher in a small, all-white Iowa town, divided her third-grade class into blue-eyed and brown-eyed groups and gave them a daring lesson in discrimination. This is the story of that lesson, its lasting impact on the children, and its enduring power thirty years later.

Boolean operators

Click on the dropdown arrows to see more options

Your screen will look like the image above, on page 13. This search in particular is an Advanced Search, and it will allow you to use more specific search methods in order to retrieve more relevant and useful results. To perform an advanced search, you can use as little or as much information as you like. Be aware that the more specific you are, the more specific your results will be. Steps to do an advanced search:

1. Type a word or phrase into the first search box
2. Specify where you would like the database to search for that word or phrase by clicking on the dropdown arrow in the box to the right of where you just typed. If you would like your word or phrase to be searched for in all parts of the articles/results, leave it set to anywhere. However, if you'd like to search in specific elements of the results, you can. Here are the options:

For example, if you are searching for articles written by a particular author, then you wouldn't necessarily want the database to pull articles that had your author's name in them. You would want to select the Author—AU option so that you will only get results whose author is the name you have searched.

3. This step is optional, but you can make your search even more specific by using Boolean operators. Look at the second line of your search options. It should begin with a box that has a dropdown arrow and reads AND. If you click on that box, you will get the option to change the AND to OR or NOT. For example, if you want to search for skin diseases, but you are not interested in results on psoriasis, you can type "skin diseases" in the first line, then choose the NOT operator and type "psoriasis" for the second line. This will ensure that you do not have results about psoriasis.
4. You can add as many additional search lines as you feel are necessary—but don't get too specific. You could miss helpful results that way.
5. You are now ready to perform your search, or you can specify more search options in the bottom section of the page.
6. One option is publication date (not a specific date, but this is good if you do/don't want results from a particular time period, or if you want only recent results).
7. Other options are available, and they include subject heading, location, document type, document feature, language, and how you would like your search results sorted. If they're sorted by "Relevance," this means that the articles that match the most of your search criteria will be displayed first.

You also have the option to do a Basic Search. If you click on the "Basic Search" linked text at the top of your page, you will then be able to perform simple keyword searches. (Kind of like doing a Google search).

NEWSPAPER ARTICLES

InfoTrac Newsstand

“This innovative full-text newspaper resource allows users to search articles instantly by title, headline, date, author, newspaper section or other fields, eliminating random searching through newspaper archives. InfoTrac Newsstand provides access to more than 1,100 major U.S. regional, national and local newspapers as well as leading titles from around the world. It also includes thousands of images, radio and TV broadcasts and transcripts.”

InfoTrac Newsstand’s home page has a basic search box on it. You can use this simple search, or you can choose the advanced search option to do perform searches similar to the process we detailed on page 14 of this handout.

Additionally, the home page links to popular searches and popular articles in case you are just browsing.

IN THE NEWS

The Supreme Court on March 21 extended the constitutional right to legal assistance in cases of plea-bargain deals that have been rejected or have lapsed due to bad lawyer advice. The ruling could allow a pair of convicted criminals in Michigan and Missouri to have their cases reopened. See "Plea Bargaining," CQ Researcher, Feb. 12, 1999.

The NFL suspended New Orleans Saints head coach Sean Payton for one year on March 21 for covering up a bounty program that paid players to knock opponents out of games. Former defensive coordinator Gregg Williams was suspended indefinitely for running the program. The team was also fined $500,000. See "Professional Football," CQ Researcher, Jan. 29, 2010, updated Oct. 11, 2011.

The Commerce Department said March 20 that it would impose tariffs on solar panels imported from China because the Chinese government provided illegal export subsidies to manufacturers. Additional
