General Information

Pay Plans

The University of Florida assigns positions to three broad pay plans—Academic Personnel; Technical, Executive, Administrative and Managerial Support (TEAMS); and University Support Personnel System (USPS). USPS employees include only those hired prior to January 7, 2003, who have not elected to move to TEAMS employment.

University of Florida appointments like yours are defined in a variety of ways. One common term known as full-time equivalency or FTE, is used to define the effort required to fulfill your employment appointment. If you are hired to work 100 percent of the normal or standard workweek (a full-time position) you will have an appointment of 1.0 FTE. Appointments of less than 100 percent of a standard workweek will be assigned a figure of less than 1.0 FTE. For example, if you are employed by UF to work 20 hours each workweek, you will have a half-time appointment or be employed at .50 FTE.

Throughout this handbook, you will see references to FTE with respect to certain benefits. Please see your supervisor if you have questions about this aspect of your employment.

Pay

Your pay is determined primarily by the class title assigned to your position as well as your overall and specific job performance, as assessed by the university. If you meet all of the minimum training, work experience and education requirements of the position at the time you are hired, you are eligible to receive at least the minimum of the salary range for that position.

If you have training and experience that exceed the minimum requirements and your hiring department has the available budget, you may receive a starting salary above the minimum of the pay grade.

Paydays and Paychecks

All university employees are paid on a biweekly basis. Provided you complete payroll sign-up prior to the payroll closing deadline, you should receive your first paycheck on the second payday following your initial date of employment and every other Friday thereafter.

Your check will be directly deposited into your account. You may wish to print out a copy of your earnings statement from the myUFL system at my.ufl.edu under My Self Service. If you do not have access to the myUFL system, your supervisor will inform you where a copy of your earnings statement may be obtained.

Federal income and Social Security taxes are deducted each pay period. Other deductions may be made at your request for items such as insurance plans, tax-sheltered annuities and contributions to the community fundraising campaign.

Non-exempt employees are paid an hourly rate and exempt employees are paid an annual rate of pay. Biweekly rates for annual salaried employees are calculated by dividing their annual rate by 26.1 (the number of biweekly pay cycles in a calendar year).

Your biweekly take-home pay can sometimes vary based on required deductions or those you have authorized. For example, your health insurance deduction is taken only 24 times a year, but you are paid 26 times a year. Therefore, at least two of your paychecks will be larger because of the absence of that deduction.

Direct Deposit Requirement

All TEAMS and USPS employees are required by University rule 6C1-3.0422 to participate in the Direct Deposit Program as a condition of employment. To comply, the hiring department must submit an employee's Direct Deposit Authorization form as part of the new hire package to Human Resource Services.

After their initial hire, employees may change their direct deposit information in the myUFL system at my.ufl.edu under My Self Service > Payroll and Compensation > Direct Deposit or by faxing a completed Direct Deposit Authorization Form to University Payroll and Tax Services at (352) 846-0166. This form may be obtained at fa.ufl.edu/forms/pdf/fa-ps-dda.pdf or fa.ufl.edu/forms/pdf/fa-ps-ddma.pdf, depending on whether the employee is requesting a single bank account or multiple bank accounts for his or her direct deposit.

Gator1 ID Cards

The Gator1 card is the official picture ID card of the University of Florida and is required of all students, faculty and staff. Generally, an employee's department will pay for the first card. If you lose your Gator1 card, go to www.gator1.ufl.edu > ID Card Services and deactivate your card. The cost for a replacement card is $15.

To receive your Gator1 card, please take photo identification and a completed "Staff and Faculty Authorization Form," found at www.gator1.ufl.edu > ID Card Services, to the Gator 1 Central office, located in the UF Bookstore and Welcome Center, Room G071. Regular operating hours are 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Employees located in the Health Science Center may obtain ID cards and badges from the Gator1 Central branch office, located in Room C3-03. HSC employees also need to bring a photo ID and a completed "Staff and Faculty Authorization Form." The HSC branch office hours are Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. (closed 12:00-12:30 for lunch). Please note that faculty/staff cards cannot be issued without a Staff and Faculty Authorization Form from the employee's department. For more information, please contact Gator1 Central at (352) 392-8343 or visit its web site at www.gator1.ufl.edu.

UFID

Each UF employee is issued an eight-digit UFID number, which also is associated with his or her Gator1 card. This UFID is used as the primary way to identify you in virtually all university records and transactions. Like a Social Security number, the UFID number is unique to each person and each person has only one number. Once it is assigned to you, please memorize or keep the number handy. To learn more about the UFID number, visit <http://identity.it.ufl.edu/process/uf-identifier/>.

Parking Decals

Transportation and Parking Services is responsible for the regulation of vehicles for Academic Personnel, staff, students and commercial organizations. The office issues parking decals, processes parking fines and appeals, manages the Health Science Center visitor parking facility and maintains parking lots and signs.

Decals or permits are required for all vehicles, including mopeds and motorcycles, in order to park on campus between 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Decals may be purchased at the Decal Office located at the corner of Gale Lemerand Drive and Mowry Road. Office hours are 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Academic Personnel and staff may have the cost of their decal deducted from each paycheck. For a list of decal options and prices as well as information about the university's car pool program and bus service, visit Transportation and Parking Services' web site at www.parking.ufl.edu or call (352) 392-8048.

Benefits Enrollment

All new employees have the opportunity to attend a Benefits Enrollment session to enroll in state and UFSelect plans. (See the “University Benefits” section of this handbook for details.) While information and brochures about insurance plans are available to you at New Employee Orientation, you may wish to enroll in a separate Benefits Enrollment session to complete your enrollment or you can complete enrollment on your own online through the People First web site.

Benefits Enrollment sessions are offered at the HRS Building, located at 903 West University Avenue, as well as in HRS’s Health Science Center, IFAS and Physical Plant Division offices. To assist you in preparing to attend a Benefits Enrollment session, a web-based tutorial that reviews your benefits options is available. Please visit our web site at www.hr.ufl.edu/benefits.

Continuous University Service

Continuous university service for USPS and TEAMS employees—with all attending benefits, leave accrual, etc.—is preserved if you leave employment then are reemployed by the University of Florida within 180 days. USPS employees who leave employment will be rehired as TEAMS employees. Please contact Classification and Compensation at (352) 392-2HRS or compensation@ufl.edu to ensure you are credited for continuous state service. Please contact University Benefits at (352) 392-2HRS or benefits@ufl.edu to ensure your coverage under the state of Florida group health and life insurance policies continues uninterrupted.

If you have previous state service, please be sure to read the “Florida Retirement System” section of this handbook. For leave benefit purposes, no years of service credit will be transferred from a state agency, institution or university for leave purposes.

Dual Careers

We understand that a transition to another place of employment for one individual can affect the career of another. We would be pleased to provide any member of your household with information about career opportunities at UF. If you are interested in finding out about this service, please contact Recruitment and Staffing at (352) 392-2HRS or employment@ufl.edu or visit www.hr.ufl.edu/recruitment.

Dress Code

While the University of Florida does not have a specific dress code, it is clearly expected that all employees will dress professionally and in a manner consistent with the university’s public agency corporate environment. It may be appropriate for certain university departments to develop their own dress codes consistent with the university’s public interests. Any dress code established by a university department should be enforced consistently within that working environment. Please see your supervisor about what type of dress is appropriate for your work area.

UF Campus Directory

Each year the University of Florida publishes a paper directory of the office and home addresses, phone numbers and e-mail address for university students, Academic Personnel and staff. This same information may be accessed by clicking on the “Directory” link on UF’s home page at www.ufl.edu. The directory also includes an academic calendar, information about campus facilities, departmental directories and other pertinent campus information.

In the event you wish to change your telephone number, please see your department’s administrator responsible for updating employee phone book information. To change your home address, please submit a new W-4 form, found online at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/fw4.pdf, to Recruitment and Staffing, PO Box 115002, 903 West University Avenue or fax (352) 846-0668. Contact Recruitment and Staffing at (352) 392-2HRS or employment@ufl.edu with questions.

About Your Employment

Attendance

When an employee is hired at the University of Florida, he or she accepts the responsibility to work every scheduled day. As a general regulation, you will be considered excessively absent if you reach or exceed your department's guidelines for attendance. Management has the discretion to determine the facts of a specific situation, taking into consideration any extenuating circumstances.

If you must be unavoidably absent from your job (that is, other than planned vacations or personal business times that have been approved in advance), it is your responsibility to let your supervisor know as soon as possible on the first day of absence why you must be absent and when you expect to return. If your anticipated return date changes, keep your supervisor informed.

Please note: A USPS or TEAMS employee who is absent without authorization for three or more consecutive workdays may be considered to have abandoned his or her position and to have resigned from the university.

Lunch

Your lunch break is set by your supervisor. Employees at the university work a variety of schedules and are permitted varying amounts of time for lunch depending upon their regular working schedule. For example, if you work from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, you typically will be scheduled for a one-hour lunch break. If, on the other hand, you work from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, you typically will be provided a half-hour lunch period.

Rest Periods

We recognize that employees work better and enjoy work more when they are rested and refreshed. During each four hours that you work, you are permitted a 15-minute rest period whenever possible. During this period, we encourage you to leave your workstation and relax. Your supervisor will advise you of particular arrangements necessary for breaks in your department. Rest-period time may not be accumulated for later use—that is, to extend your lunch hour, arrive late or leave early. You also may not combine breaks to allow a half-hour break during an eight-hour shift.

Working Hours

For full-time employees, the university's normal work schedule is a five-day, 40-hour week. Most employees work this schedule with minor variations. Employees who work less than full-time will work the number of hours proportional to their FTEs. Where we must maintain continuous operation, additional work shifts are scheduled.

You must obtain your supervisor's approval in advance for any variations to your normal schedule. Your supervisor will keep you informed of your work schedule should there be any change from what was assigned originally. Any approved adjustment in a work schedule (to make up time missed during regular working hours or to offset working beyond the regular workday when the 40-hour week must be maintained) should be arranged within the affected workweek.

For payroll purposes, including overtime accrual issues for non-exempt employees, the university's workweek begins at 12:01 a.m. each Friday and ends on the following Thursday at 12 midnight.

Outside Employment and Conflict of Interest

As a UF employee, you may be permitted to engage in outside employment/activities that do not pose a conflict of interest if such employment/activities are properly disclosed and approved by the university. Because of this, you will need to review potential conflicts with and secure approval from your supervisor before beginning any such outside employment or activity.

TEAMS and USPS employees must complete an outside activities report as part of this approval process. In all instances, an outside activities report must be completed prior to beginning the outside employment or activity. All forms related to outside employment are available from Human Resource Services and online at www.hr.ufl.edu/recruitment/policy/outside.asp.

All TEAMS and USPS employees must complete the Disclosure of Outside Activities and Financial Interest form OAA-GA-L-267 to secure university approval if they wish to use university equipment, facilities or services in connection with outside employment or activity. You may be charged for this use as determined by your department chair or director along with the appropriate dean and/or vice president.

University employees engaging in additional employment within the university beyond their primary job require formal review and approval using the HR-600, "Request for Approval of Additional University Employment" form. For details, please contact Classification and Compensation at (352) 392-2HRS or compensation@ufl.edu.

TEAMS Notice of Non-Reappointment

TEAMS employees may be issued a Notice of Non-Reappointment (i.e., may be non-renewed) at any time. The decision not to issue another appointment of employment is not a "termination" for misconduct and therefore does not require "just cause" to support the decision. The non-reappointment process is governed by university regulations. Employees shall receive three months' notice that their appointments will not be renewed.

Any employee may be terminated from employment at any time if he or she has engaged in misconduct or is unable to perform the essential functions of his or her position. Such "just cause" terminations are governed by university regulations. Any employee may be laid off at any time for legitimate layoff reasons pursuant to university regulations. An employee who has been issued a Notice of Non-Reappointment may apply for other university positions during and after his or her non-reappointment period.

Notice of Voluntary Resignation

While we hope your employment with the University of Florida is positive and lasting, should you plan to voluntarily resign from your position, university regulation requires exempt employees to provide their departments with one month's notice. Non-exempt employees must provide at least two weeks' notice. Employees who resign must wait 180 days before reapplying for University of Florida employment. All employees will be rehired as TEAMS employees.

Conditions of Employment

Non-Exempt and Exempt Status

Job classifications are designated as either non-exempt or exempt for overtime payment eligibility under the Fair Labor Standards Act. Non-exempt (hourly) employees are eligible for overtime compensation, while exempt employees—whose duties usually are executive, professional or administrative—are not eligible for overtime compensation.

Probationary Period and Status

TEAMS employees serve a six-month probationary period upon hire at the University of Florida unless their probationary periods are extended (in which case, their probationary periods could be extended to last up to one year). After successfully completing their probationary periods or initial appointments, TEAMS employees are issued appointments to coincide with the appointment cycle (March 1 – February 28), including upon promotion, reassignment or demotion.

Exempt TEAMS employees' initial appointments at UF are typically for six months.

Please note that USPS and non-exempt TEAMS employees in law enforcement classes complete a 12-month probationary period.

If an employee is dismissed during the probationary period, he or she does not have rights to appeal the dismissal. In light of this, it is important for an employee to get feedback from his or her supervisor during the probationary period. Should an employee be dismissed during his or her probationary period, he or she may not be eligible for re-employment with the university.

Non-exempt and exempt USPS employees serve probationary periods upon promotion, reassignment or demotion to a classification in which they do not hold permanent status.

Performance Appraisals

So that you may obtain essential information about your work performance, employees with more than six months of service are formally evaluated by their supervisors on an annual basis. Your supervisor will complete an appraisal that covers March 1 through the end of February each year.

Non-exempt TEAMS and all USPS employees' supervisors will complete a form rating their employees on five criteria—work performance, attendance/reliability, customer service, initiative/productivity, teamwork/interpersonal skills—using five rankings ranging from “Exceeds” to “Below” performance standards. This form will also be used following each nonexempt TEAMS employee's initial six-month probationary period as well as for each probationary period fulfilled by USPS employees when changing classifications.

Exempt TEAMS employees' performance appraisals may use the aforementioned form as a framework, but a letter or narrative will serve as a final submission. In addition, a cover sheet to be completed and attached to the appraisal is required. The cover sheet permits a specific overall rating for the Exempt TEAMS employees to be provided and recorded using the same five rankings, ranging from “Exceeds” to “Below” performance standards.

The appraisal form also offers an opportunity for employees to assess their own performance and includes sections for the employees and their supervisors to identify goals for the upcoming year.

Each employee will sign his or her performance appraisal and receive an original copy; a copy will be sent to Employee Relations. If you have questions about performance appraisals, please contact Employee Relations at (352) 392-1072 or emprel@ufl.edu.

Time Worked

Each supervisor is responsible for ensuring that the following time-worked regulations be observed:

1. Non-exempt employees must account daily for all hours in the workweek, as each starting and stopping time occurs, via the myUFL system, found at my.ufl.edu, unless the department designates otherwise.

Exempt USPS employees are required to account for all hours in the workweek on time-worked records based on total hours per day of work, leave or holiday time when they work more than 40 hours (thus, earning regular compensatory leave) or for workweeks when special compensatory leave is earned. Exempt TEAMS employees do not complete time-worked records.

Please note that exempt employees must report leave used via the myUFL system; however, it is important that hours accounted for each day match the pre-populated amount or overpayment may result. Please see the instruction guide on leave reporting by exempt employees at www.hr.ufl.edu/training/myUFL/toolkits/TimeLabor.asp.

2. Time-worked and leave reported by an employee must be approved by the employee's immediate supervisor or by the designated approver to ensure proper and accurate payment.
3. In computing the workweek, time off charged to any type of leave or holiday is not considered to be hours worked for purposes of overtime pay.
4. Regardless of the amount of leave originally approved for an employee to use (including some types of administrative leave) an employee only may be charged with or granted the amount of paid leave necessary to bring the employee to his or her normal workweek not to exceed 40 hours. See the "Leave Policies" section of this handbook for details about administrative leave.
5. Non-exempt employees are encouraged to leave their workstations during their regularly scheduled lunch periods.
6. Non-exempt employees should not begin work before the established starting time nor should they work beyond the established quitting time unless specifically authorized by their supervisors. University of Florida policy prescribes that supervisors be present during their employees' working hours so that they may verify hours worked.
7. USPS and non-exempt TEAMS employees may not take work home from the workstations to be completed after hours unless approved in accordance with the university's alternate work location policy.
8. Employees who falsify any type of university document or falsely report time-worked, leave usage, etc., shall be subject to dismissal.

Overtime Compensation

Because the university operates on a set budget each fiscal year, overtime worked by non-exempt

(hourly) employees is limited to emergency situations or pre-planned and approved overtime for peak work periods.

Overtime is defined as work that is required beyond 40 hours in the workweek. Non-exempt employees who work in excess of 40 hours may be compensated by cash payment or by being credited with up to 120 hours of overtime compensatory leave. Cash payment for purposes of overtime compensation is on the basis of 1½ times an employee's regular hourly rate of pay for each hour of overtime worked.

Supervisors are encouraged to make a reasonable effort, based on department needs and mutual agreement, to allow employees to state a preference between overtime compensatory leave and cash payment. If agreement cannot be reached, then overtime compensation must be in the form of a cash payment.

Should an employee be compensated with overtime compensatory leave as an alternative to payment, he or she may be credited with up to 120 hours of overtime compensatory leave—that is, 80 hours of overtime worked on the basis of 1½ hours of leave for each hour worked. The conversion to 1½ is processed automatically by the myUFL system. Upon reaching the 120-hour limit of overtime compensatory leave, employees must either receive cash for additional hours of overtime worked or use accrued overtime compensatory leave before receiving further overtime compensatory leave credits. The University of Florida's overtime policy encourages employees to use overtime compensatory leave as soon as possible after it is earned.

When employees reassign, promote or demote from their budgetary units, as defined by the appropriate vice president/designee, their overtime compensatory leave credits must be cashed out before the effective dates of their new positions. The appropriate vice president/designee also may elect to cash out all overtime compensatory leave credits when employees transfer within their budgetary units. In addition, all overtime compensatory leave credits typically must be taken as leave time or be cashed out prior to any scheduled salary increases. Unused overtime compensatory leave credits also must be taken as leave time or be cashed out prior to the end of each fiscal year. This cash-out will typically occur in May or June. Departments will be advised several weeks before the "cash-out" payday.

Please direct questions about overtime compensation to Leave Administration at (352) 392-2477 or central-leave@ufl.edu.

Regular Compensatory Leave

Only USPS exempt employees who are required to work more than 40 hours in a workweek are eligible to earn regular compensatory leave on an hour-for-hour basis. With supervisory approval, an exempt USPS employee may adjust his or her workweek to take equivalent time off for hours worked in excess of the employee's normal schedule.

Part-time USPS exempt employees who are required to work more than their FTE are eligible to earn regular compensatory leave on an hour-for-hour basis. No employee typically shall be allowed to accrue more than 120 hours of such regular compensatory leave credits—although in unusual circumstances exceptions to this limit may be requested. No payment for unused regular compensatory leave credits is permitted when exempt employees separate from the university or transfer out of the USPS. However, when an employee moves from a university position eligible to accrue regular compensatory leave to an ineligible university position (for example, from a USPS exempt position to a TEAMS exempt position), accrued regular compensatory leave is retained but must be used before vacation leave. Requests for use of earned regular compensatory leave should be handled in the same manner as requests to use accrued vacation leave.

Special Compensatory Leave

Special compensatory leave is earned when a TEAMS non-exempt, USPS non-exempt or USPS exempt employee exceeds his or her weekly FTE due to a holiday or certain types of administrative leave. See the “Holidays” and “Administrative Leave” sections of this handbook for details.

Official University Travel

Travel to and from an employee’s home to the employee’s regularly assigned headquarters cannot be counted as hours worked. If a USPS or non-exempt TEAMS employee is called back to work after his or her scheduled hours of work for the day, the employee should be credited with actual time worked, including time to and from the employee’s home to the assigned work location or a minimum of two hours of work—whichever is greater.

An employee may be required to attend a meeting or conference or otherwise work at an out-of-town location as part of their employment with the University of Florida. In these instances, official travel time that occurs either during or outside of the employee’s normal work schedule is considered time worked. If official travel time results in a non-exempt employee exceeding 40 hours in the work week, the employee must be compensated for overtime according to standard overtime policies.

When a non-exempt (hourly) employee is in official travel status, time spent in travel may result in total hours for the week exceeding 40, in which case the employee is in overtime status and must be compensated according to standard overtime policies.

Please contact Leave Administration at (352) 392-2477 or central-leave@ufl.edu with questions.

Job Classification and Reclassification

Classification

The basic principle of position classification is that positions similar in duties and responsibilities should be grouped together in a common category. The purposes of a classification system include the following:

- To maintain an “equal pay for equal work” policy, thus avoiding inequitable treatment of employees by assuring positions requiring similar tasks and duties are grouped and classified together.
- To aid in recruitment by establishing meaningful qualification requirements.
- To provide a base of common understanding in Human Resource Services administration through a system of class titles.
- To aid in clarifying and improving organizational structure.
- To facilitate better employee-management relations.
- To facilitate administration of funds allocated for wages and salaries in an equitable manner.

Position classification is based on the duties and responsibilities of the job and not on the qualifications held by an applicant or incumbent.

Reclassification

If it is believed the duties and responsibilities of a position have changed sufficiently to warrant a new classification, a request for a reclassification study may be made by the supervisor or department chairperson through administrative channels to Classification and Compensation at (352) 392-2HRS or compensation@ufl.edu. The basis of the review will be a position description revised by the department to reflect the changes in duties.

This study will determine whether the position should be placed in a higher, lower or otherwise different classification. An actual change in the level of difficulty, responsibility or nature of a job is necessary and must be demonstrated to warrant the reclassification of a position. “Length of service,” “excellent job performance,” or “increased volume of work” cannot be considered as determining factors for a reclassification action.

About Your Pay

Salary Increases

Salary increases for USPS and TEAMS employees will be made in accordance with the guidelines issued by the President and the UF Board of Trustees.

Special Pay Increases

Special pay provides an increase to the employee's salary in her or his current position and title and may be given as long as rate and dollars are available within the department.

The special pay increase categories currently available are:

- Increased responsibilities, where additional duties or responsibilities have been assigned to the position
- Counter-offers that may be actual or anticipated
- Market equity

Supervisors may initiate special pay increases in the myUFL system and should refer to the “Special Pay Increase” instruction guide, at www.hr.ufl.edu/training/myUFL/instructionguides/SpecialPayIncrease.pdf, for further details. All Special Pay Increases must be accompanied by an explanation/justification and the completed TEAMS and USPS Special Pay Increase Request Form found at www.hr.ufl.edu/class_comp/forms/spi.pdf.

Because special pay increases for increased volume or responsibilities can be rescinded should the volume or responsibilities be reduced at a later date, these conditions need to be documented using the SPI form, which requires the employee’s signature. While the action will be initiated in the myUFL system, the paper form will need to be completed and submitted simultaneously through approval channels. Classification and Compensation cannot approve the special pay increase request until a copy or fax of this form is received. The original should be retained in the department, college or director’s office.

Please note that the effective date for special pay actions shall be the date the vice president approves the special pay job action.

Questions may be directed to Classification and Compensation at (352) 392-2HRS, compensation@ufl.edu or your nearest HRS office.

Career Movement

Job Titles and Qualifications

As briefly mentioned in the “Pay” section of this handbook, all positions at the University of Florida have minimum qualifications that require various levels of training, work experience and education. In addition to these minimum requirements, departments frequently have special requirements for certain positions.

It is possible to meet minimum qualifications for more than one job title. For instance, you may meet the qualifications for a senior biological scientist, which means you also meet the qualifications for a biological scientist. You also may have completed more than one kind of training or experience such that you might additionally qualify for a chemist position.

Some TEAMS positions require a bachelor’s degree and a minimum of two years’ experience or a master’s degree. However, these positions also may require other types of specialized experience based on departmental need.

Please direct questions concerning qualifications or job titles to Classification and Compensation at (352) 392-2HRS or compensation@ufl.edu.

Changing Positions

If you are a USPS employee who has successfully completed your probationary period or a TEAMS employee who has successfully completed six months in your current position, you may apply for positions outside your department. As a USPS employee, you must serve a six-month probationary period each time you change titles. Non-exempt TEAMS employees are required to serve only one six-month probationary period upon initial hire; however, you must complete six months of service in your current position before you are eligible to apply for positions outside of your department.

To view vacancies and apply for jobs, please visit GatorJobs, the University of Florida online recruitment system at jobs.ufl.edu.

Promotions, reassignments or demotions are not allowed if the employee receives a “Below” rating on his or her last performance appraisal. Also, an employee who has received a written reprimand or who has been suspended is not eligible for other university employment opportunities until six months of satisfactory service have followed such discipline.

In the event a USPS employee accepts a TEAMS-only position or elects to enroll in TEAMS, there is no option for him or her to transfer back to USPS.

Detailed application instructions, materials and pay regulations are available on Human Resource Services’ web site, www.hr.ufl.edu.

A Word about Reassignments and Demotions

When most of us think about changing positions, typically we envision receiving a promotion. Depending on your career goals, however, there may be times when a reassignment or demotion is an appropriate move to make.

A reassignment is a move to a job that is in the same classification (job title) as your present job or in a different classification but the same pay grade.

Applications for reassignment are appropriate when you are interested in moving to another area or when your background could be put to better use in a different type of work. Reassignments within a department may be made at the discretion of management.

A voluntary demotion also may be an alternative when considering career options at the University of Florida. A demotion occurs when an employee moves from a position in one classification to a position in another classification that has a lower pay grade.

Employees may receive higher salaries upon promotion, reassignment or demotion.

Vacation Leave

Vacation leave is earned on the last day of each pay period in proportion to the amount of time in paid status. There is no waiting period for using vacation leave. Once vacation leave is posted to the balance, employees may request to use it. However, requests for vacation leave should be submitted in advance and taken only after supervisory approval has been received. Vacation leave may be used only up to the regular FTE, not to exceed the 40-hour workweek.

In unusual or unavoidable situations, supervisors may require employees to take a portion of their vacation leave at a specified time. USPS employees may be required to take vacation leave during the established university closing each year. If they do not have sufficient vacation leave to cover the absence, they may use accrued compensatory leave, leave without pay or they may request that vacation leave be advanced to them and supervisors shall approve such requests. This is the only time vacation leave may be advanced for any employee of the University of Florida.

TEAMS and USPS employees may accrue vacation leave throughout the year. However, any accrued hours in excess of 240 hours for USPS and 352 for TEAMS will convert to sick leave hours at the end of the pay period in which December 31 falls.

Vacation leave transfers with the employee if he or she moves to other benefits-eligible positions within the University of Florida. Upon separation of employment from the university, employees receive a final payment of all unused vacation leave, up to 200 hours for USPS and TEAMS employees. After a formal layoff and upon recall by the university within 365 days, all unpaid vacation leave shall be restored. Vacation leave paid at the time of layoff is restored upon repayment.

Sick Leave

Sick leave is earned on the last day of each pay period in proportion to the amount of time in paid status. There is no waiting period for using sick leave. Once sick leave is posted to the balance, employees may request to use it. Earned sick leave may be approved for time off from work because of exposure to a contagious disease that may endanger others, personal visits to doctors or dentists and for personal illness. Sick leave may be used only up to the regular FTE, not to exceed the 40-hour workweek.

Sick leave may also be used in reasonable amounts for illness, injury or death within the immediate family, pending supervisory approval. The university's definition for "immediate family" is defined as an employee's spouse, domestic partner, great-grandparent, grandparent, parent, brother, sister, child, grandchild or the grandparent, parent, brother, sister, child, grandchild or great-grandchild of the employee's spouse or domestic partner or the spouse or domestic partner of any of them. This also includes individuals for whom the employee is the current legal guardian.

Sick leave transfers with the employee if he or she moves to other benefits-eligible positions within UF.

SEPARATIONS EFFECTIVE AFTER 01/01/2012:

Employees shall not be paid for any unused sick leave upon separation from employment except in the case of separation from University employment as a result of retirement or death on or before June 30, 2016.

For Employees Hired Prior to April 1, 2010 With 10+ Years of Service with UF

After completing at least ten years of creditable service, an employee who has separated employment with the university because of retirement or death will be paid for 1/4 of unused sick leave credits, not to exceed an actual payment of 480 hours (for a balance of 1920 or more hours). Time spent on personal leaves of absence does not count toward the requirement of ten years of creditable service for purposes of sick leave cash-out.

For Employees Hired After April 1, 2010 Employees hired after April 1, 2010, are not eligible for a sick leave payment upon separation.

AFTER 06/30/2016, SICK LEAVE PAYMENT WILL NOT BE MADE FOR ANY TYPE OF SEPARATION.

TEAMS December Benefits

All TEAMS employees receive four personal leave days to be used between December 26 and 31 each year between the observed Christmas and New Year's Day official holidays. TEAMS employees who are considered essential personnel and required to work during this time, may use their Personal Leave Days any time in any increment, from the beginning of December when the hours are credited until the end of that fiscal year (pending supervisory approval). Essential staff are determined by the appropriate vice president, working with their deans or directors.

All TEAMS employees are entitled to cash out up to 16 hours of vacation leave each December, provided at least 40 hours remain on balance.

USPS Personal Holiday

USPS employees are granted one personal holiday per fiscal year. Part-time employees are entitled to a personal holiday in proportion to their current FTE.

A personal holiday is credited at the end of the pay period in which July 1 falls. It must be taken prior to the end of the pay period during which June 30 of the following year falls or it will be forfeited. Personal holidays must be taken as a full day—not in hourly increments. If a USPS employee changes to a TEAMS position or elects to move to the TEAMS pay plan, the USPS personal holiday must be used (subject to supervisory approval) before beginning the TEAMS appointment or it will be forfeited. The USPS personal holiday has no cash value and is not cashed out upon separation of employment.

Holidays

University of Florida employees—both TEAMS and USPS—have ten paid holidays each year:

- New Year's Day
- Martin Luther King Jr.'s Birthday
- Memorial Day
- Independence Day
- Labor Day
- UF Homecoming Day
- Veterans Day
- Thanksgiving Day
- The Day after Thanksgiving
- Christmas Day

When an official holiday falls on a Saturday, it is observed on the preceding Friday. Whenever the official holiday falls on a Sunday, it is observed on the following Monday. Holidays are earned in proportion to FTE. Employees must be in pay status for a reasonable portion of their last regularly scheduled workday before the holiday in order to be eligible for that holiday. Each department determines what constitutes a reasonable portion of the workday. Pay status includes time worked or approved leave (for example, vacation, sick or compensatory leave).

Special Compensatory Leave in Conjunction with a Holiday

TEAMS Exempt Employees

TEAMS exempt employees do not earn any type of compensatory leave credits if required to work on a holiday. However, with supervisory approval, they may adjust their work schedule within that workweek.

All USPS and TEAMS Non-Exempt Employees

Special compensatory leave is earned on an hour-for-hour basis. USPS or TEAMS non-exempt employees generally earn special compensatory leave:

- when they must work on a holiday
- when a holiday falls on their regular day off
- when the holiday falls on their regular day off, but they are required to work

As an alternative to accruing special compensatory leave, supervisors may adjust the work schedule by allowing an employee to be off another day during that workweek.

Accrued special compensatory leave must be used or cashed out at these times:

- prior to the effective date of reassignment, promotion or demotion out of the budgetary unit, as defined by the appropriate vice president/designee
- prior to employee transfer within budgetary units, as defined by the appropriate vice president/designee
- prior to any scheduled salary increases
- prior to the end of each fiscal year, typically in May or June

Administrative Leave

Administrative leave is leave with pay that is not charged against individually accrued leave balances. It is designed to keep employees in full pay status under certain circumstances and typically can be granted only in the amount necessary to the regular FTE, not to exceed the 40-hour workweek. Administrative leave benefits are the same for USPS and TEAMS employees with the following exception: TEAMS non-exempt and all USPS employees may earn special compensatory leave in conjunction with certain types of administrative leave that may not be reduced. Exempt TEAMS employees are not eligible to earn special compensatory leave.

USPS and TEAMS employees may be granted administrative leave in the following situations:

- Athletic competition
- Civil disorder or disaster
- Court/jury duty/witness
- Death in immediate family
- Florida disaster volunteer leave
- Florida National Guard active state service
- Natural disasters and other emergency conditions
- Presidential leave
- Short-term military training
- Voting

Specific information on these types of administrative leave may be found on the Human Resource Services web site at www.hr.ufl.edu/leave/administrative.asp

Sick Leave Pool

The university's Sick Leave Pool is a way for employees to contribute a portion of their individually accrued sick leave for collective use of the members. Leave-accruing TEAMS AND USPS employees who have at least 64 hours of sick leave on balance may apply to join the Sick Leave Pool during the Open Enrollment period October 1-31. Membership is approved if the criteria are met. Once membership is approved, full-time employees contribute 8 hours of sick leave automatically to the Sick Leave Pool. All figures associated with the sick leave pool are figured on a prorated basis for part-time employees.

Members of the Sick Leave Pool who have exhausted all their accrued leave (sick, vacation, etc.) may apply for hours from the pool in the event of a personal catastrophic illness or injury. Catastrophic injury or illness is defined as “a severe condition or combination of conditions affecting the mental or physical health of the employee that has resulted in a life-threatening condition and/or has had a major impact on life functions.”

The Sick Leave Pool Committee meets approximately every two weeks to review applications. The committee is composed of a chair and an alternate chair, both physicians, as well as representatives from each of the pay plans (Academic Personnel, TEAMS and USPS).

If the committee agrees that the employee's medical condition meets the pool's definition of a catastrophic injury or illness and grants the employee Sick Leave Pool hours, the hours will be entered into the affected employee's personal sick leave balance shortly following the committee's meeting.

The Sick Leave Pool policy and forms to apply for membership or to request pool hours are located on the Human Resource Services web site at www.hr.ufl.edu/leave/sickleavepool.

Domestic Violence Leave

According to Florida law, Florida employers must provide employees up to three days of leave in a twelve-month period if the employee or a family or household member is a victim of domestic violence. The fiscal year of July 1 to June 30 will be considered the twelve-month period.

Activities Covered by the Leave

An employer must provide leave for the following specific activities:

- Seeking an injunction for protection against domestic violence or repeat violence, dating violence or sexual violence
- Obtaining medical care or mental health counseling or both for the employee or a family or household member to address injuries resulting from domestic violence
- Obtaining services from victims services organizations such as a domestic violence shelter or rape crisis center
- Making the employee's home secure from the perpetrator of domestic violence or finding a new home to escape the perpetrator
- Seeking legal assistance to address issues arising from domestic violence or attending or preparing for court related proceedings arising from the act of domestic violence

Advanced Notice

Except in cases of imminent danger to the health or safety of an employee or to the health or safety of a family or household member, an employee seeking leave from work under this section must provide his or her employer advanced notice of the leave.

Type of Leave

The employee is required to use accrued leave. In the event that the employee does not have sufficient leave hours to cover the event, the leave that is not covered will be unpaid.

Employer Responsibilities

The employer must keep all information relating to the leave confidential and exempt from disclosure. This documentation is to be maintained in the Human Resources Department and kept separate from the employee's official personnel file. Under no circumstances can the employer take any disciplinary action against the employee related to the use of the domestic violence leave.

A total entitlement (not per event) of 12 workweeks in a 12-month period (fiscal year) is provided to eligible employees by the FMLA

¹In order for OPS employees to be eligible for FMLA leave, they must have been employed by the university at least 12 months (these need not have been consecutive) and have worked a minimum of 1250 hours during the 12 months immediately preceding the beginning of the leave. OPS employees who do not have access to paid leave must use leave without pay in all circumstances.

² brother, sister, domestic partner, grandparent, great-grandparent, grandchild, great-grandchild of the employee or the employee's spouse or domestic partner

“Extended leave” is a term used at the University of Florida that encompasses all forms of leave with or without pay that last longer than 15 consecutive workdays. As a result, extended leave may be provided for medical (self and family), parental, military and personal reasons. It may or may not be FMLA-qualifying.

When an employee uses vacation leave and compensatory leave to cover an absence of more than 15 consecutive workdays for personal reasons, in keeping with the university’s vacation and compensatory leave policies, the employee will not be considered to be on an “extended leave.” An extended leave of absence for personal reasons is available; however, it must be taken as leave without pay. Such leave is available only upon supervisory approval and is not covered by the FMLA.

As appropriate, the University of Florida’s extended leave of absence policy incorporates at a minimum the requirements of the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA)—although not all of the circumstances covered by the university’s extended leave of absence policy are affected by the FMLA.

About the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA)

The FMLA was enacted by Congress in 1993, with final regulations becoming available in 1995. Under this federal law, eligible employees are entitled upon request to a total entitlement (not per event) of twelve workweeks of leave without pay in a twelve-month period when:

- An employee becomes a biological parent
- A child is placed in his or her home pending adoption
- for foster-care purposes
- An employee needs to care for his or her parent, spouse or child with a serious health condition
- The employee has a serious health condition.

At the University of Florida, employees may use their individually accrued paid leave*, be in leave without pay status, maintain reduced work schedules or be absent from work intermittently while on many forms of extended leaves of absence. As appropriate, all of the above will count toward the twelve weeks of an employee’s FMLA entitlement. The twelve-month period at the University of Florida is considered the fiscal year, July 1 through June 30 of the following calendar year.

Employees should submit requests for leave of absence, including FMLA leave, to their supervisor. At the University of Florida, the leave benefits are frequently more generous than those provided by the FMLA. As a result, when granting appropriate leave in keeping with university policy, departments will likely meet the requirements of the FMLA as a matter of course. UF supervisors are responsible for assuring FMLA-qualifying leave is designated as appropriate.

Upon return from an extended leave, including FMLA leave, an employee will be returned to the same position or a position in the same classification unless he or she and the university have agreed in writing otherwise. FMLA leave will not affect the benefits normally accrued by employees during a leave with or without pay, as appropriate. Employees may be required to present certification from their health care provider that they are able to resume work.

 Overtime compensatory leave, when used, may not count toward the twelve weeks of an employee’s FMLA entitlement.*

Employee Eligibility

All USPS and TEAMS employees hired into leave-accruing positions are eligible for FMLA leave upon hire at the University of Florida. OPS employees must have worked at least twelve months (need not have been consecutive) and also have worked at least 1,250 hours during the twelve months prior to the start of the FMLA leave.

Serious Health Condition

To be eligible for an extended leave for medical reasons (self or family), an employee must provide documentation from the appropriate health care provider that a serious health condition exists. (In the event a serious health condition does not exist, a department at its discretion still may grant a medical leave, in which case the leave would not be FMLA-qualifying.) A serious health condition means an illness, injury, impairment or physical or mental condition that involves:

- Any period of incapacity or treatment connected with inpatient care in a hospital, hospice or residential medical care facility
- A period of incapacity requiring absence of more than three calendar days from work, school or other regular daily activities that also involves continuing treatment by (or under the supervision of) a health care provider
- Any period of incapacity due to pregnancy or for prenatal care
- Any period of incapacity (or treatment therefore) due to a chronic serious health condition
- A period of incapacity that is permanent or long-term due to a condition for which treatment may not be effective
- Any absences to receive multiple treatments (including any period of recovery) by or on referral by, a health care provider for a condition that likely would result in incapacity of more than three consecutive days if left

Family Member with a Serious Health Condition

Under the provisions of the FMLA and university policy, an employee may care for a family member (his or her parent, spouse or child, if FMLA-qualifying or “immediate family” under university policy) with a serious health condition if one or both of the following apply:

- The family member requires assistance for basic medical, hygiene, nutritional, safety or transportation needs as a result of a serious health condition
- The employee’s presence would be beneficial or desirable for the care of the family member with a serious health condition, which may include psychological comfort

Other Considerations

Leave of absence may have an impact on benefits. Because insurance premiums are typically paid a month in advance, employees should contact University Benefits at (352) 392-2HRS or benefits@ufl.edu, approximately five to six weeks prior to beginning any extended leave of absence.

Employees who participate in the Florida Retirement System will have full-month service credit and prorated contributions made on their behalf during the months they are in pay status.

Time spent on extended leaves of absence by USPS employees, regardless of pay status, will count toward higher vacation leave accrual.

For more detailed information about leaves of absence, including the FMLA, please refer to the Human Resource Services web site at www.hr.ufl.edu/leave/extended.asp

University Benefits

Your benefits can represent a significant portion of your overall compensation, based on the elections you've made. As your employer, the University of Florida picks up a large percentage of the overall cost of insurances, particularly health and basic life, resulting in lower premiums. A variety of other supplemental plans, which are strictly employee-paid, are also available.

New University of Florida staff members can now complete New Employee Orientation (NEO) in the classroom or online. Group benefits enrollment, which provides an opportunity to enroll in benefits within a new employee's first 60 days, also are provided several times each month for both new TEAMS and benefits-eligible faculty. If you choose to enroll in the benefits plans available to you, you must do so within 60 calendar days of your date of hire. If you miss this 60-day window, you will not be able to enroll in benefits until the fall open enrollment period. You may change or add benefits when you experience a qualifying status change event as long as the change is consistent with the event and the paperwork for the change is submitted to the University Benefits office within 60 calendar days of the event.

An overview of the various plans available is provided below. More detailed information, such as premium rates, dependent coverage and additional benefits and options for any of the following plans, is available through <http://www.myflorida.com/MyBenefits/> or <http://www.fbmclearningcenter.com/>. A detailed outline of available benefits is also provided in the Benefits section of our web site found at www.hr.ufl.edu/benefits.

*Special Note: The State of Florida benefits premiums are deducted on pre-tax basis. The UFSelect benefits premiums are deducted on post-tax-basis.

Health Coverage

The State of Florida offers PPO, HMO and Health Investment PPO and HMO plans. Special plans designed for spouses (through the state of Florida) and domestic partners (through UF) also are available. The university contributes a percentage of the cost for health insurance. If you are part-time, your premium will be prorated based on your FTE.

State Employees' PPO Plan

The State Employees' PPO Plan offers a choice of either individual or family coverage. This plan gives you worldwide coverage but has deductibles and co-payments. Premium rates are listed in the benefits materials given to you in new employee orientation and on our web site. The plan does not pay benefits for pre-existing conditions that would otherwise be considered a covered service until:

- You have been employed for 12 months—or 365 days—if you enroll as a new hire or
- Your coverage has been effective for 12 months—365 days—if you added coverage during the annual open enrollment period or because of a status change (qualifying event) or a special enrollment period

The pre-existing condition may be waived if an employee can provide a certificate of 12 months' creditable coverage with a prior employer and show there has not been a break in coverage of more than 63 days prior to employment with UF.

Employees enrolled in the State Employees' PPO Plan will have lower co-payments and deductibles when treated by a preferred provider organization (PPO) than a non-PPO. After enrolling in the plan, you will receive member cards along with provider information.

Health Maintenance Organizations

In addition to the statewide State Employees' PPO Plan described above, a variety of Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs) offering individual or family coverage are available in many counties throughout the state. HMOs are self-administered, pre-paid health plans that provide health services to people who live or work within each HMO's service area. Most HMOs provide limited or no coverage for services outside their service area except in the case of life- or limb-threatening emergencies. HMOs have co-payments but no deductibles.

These plans are designed to deliver excellent health care within a well-defined area. Out-of-pocket costs associated with HMOs are sometimes, but not always, less than those of a traditional health plan. For additional information regarding HMOs, including counties covered, please visit the Benefits section of our web site at <http://www.myflorida.com/MyBenefits/> for links to HMOs.

Health Investor HMO or PPO

Employees may elect to enroll in the state's Health Investor Health Plan (HIHP) by selecting the HMO or PPO plan. Both plans offer single- or family-coverage. The HIHP PPO and HMO both cover the same medical services and supplies as the state's traditional PPO and HMO plans. With the HIHP, employees have lower monthly premiums and the ability to open a Health Savings Account (HSA). In return for lower premiums, employees pay both a higher deductible and percentage of health care costs when services are received, compared to costs under the traditional plans. To help offset the costs, the state will contribute on a pre-tax basis up to $500 for individual coverage and $1,000 for family coverage based on the employee's FTE status. Employees may also add their own pre-tax dollars in addition to the state's contribution to help pay for costs related to the high deductible and other out-of-pocket expenses.

Spouse Program

Employees with spouses who work for any state of Florida agency (including the University of Florida) are eligible to enroll in the health insurance spouse program. The spouse program combines the state's matching portion of each member's insurance premium, which in turn has the effect of providing health insurance at a minimum cost to these employees so long as both are appointed full-time and are in benefits-eligible positions.

Any changes related to work/life events—such as birth/adoption, divorce, termination, leave of absence or change in FTE—must be reported to Human Resource Services within 60 calendar days of the event. During this time, health coverage may be converted or dropped in order to prevent the underpayment of premiums and/or cancellation of coverage.

GatorCare Domestic Partner Health Insurance

All benefits-eligible faculty and staff are eligible for GatorCare plan. It is available to both same- and opposite-sex partners, as well as children of employees and partners, as long as the eligibility criteria are satisfied.

GatorCare is a self-insured health plan designed to promote improved health care access, quality of care and employee health. As a self-insured plan, UF is responsible for the cost of claims instead of a third-party insurance company. Both Florida Blue (formerly Blue Cross Blue Shield of Florida) and Magellan Pharmacy Solutions have partnered with UF to manage the plan's administration. Each offers comprehensive provider networks within Florida and throughout the U.S. and has extensive experience with the processing of both medical and pharmacy claims for payment.

For employees enrolled in GatorCare domestic partner coverage, IRS regulations require that employer contributions paid on behalf of the partner or the partner's dependent child(ren) if applicable be considered as taxable income. Due to the added cost for the partner or the partner's children, if applicable, UF provides an additional benefit by adjusting for taxes taken on that portion of the premium to compensate for the tax impact. For more information, please visit www.hr.ufl.edu/benefits.

Life Insurance

State of Florida Group Life Insurance: Basic As a USPS or TEAMS employee, you are eligible to participate in the basic State of Florida Group Life Insurance plan, which is a level term insurance. The university pays 100 percent of the premium for full-time employees; part-time employees pay a portion based upon FTE. The coverage amount is $25,000. This insurance covers the employee only—dependents are not eligible. For more information, please visit www.hr.ufl.edu/benefits.

State of Florida Group Life Insurance: Optional Life During your first 60 days of initial eligibility, you may apply for Optional Term life insurance – up to the lesser of five times your annual earnings or $500,000 – without providing evidence of insurability. The plan maximum is seven times annual earnings or $1,000,000. For coverage amounts above five times your salary or $500,000, employees may apply by a medical application. Employees pay 100 percent of the premium—dependents are not eligible to participate. Please note: This is the only post-tax state-sponsored benefit available to UF employees.

UFSelect Term Life Insurance This level-term life insurance program is available to all USPS and TEAMS employees, their dependent spouses/domestic partners and dependent children. As a new employee, with at least .50 FTE, you may purchase from $10,000 to $800,000 of life insurance and AD&D. The guarantee issue amount without evidence of insurability for employees is $300,000. During each Open Enrollment period employees may increase coverage without evidence of insurability by $10,000 up to the plan maximum of $800,000 as long as the employee has not been previously declined for a life insurance increase by The Standard.

For a spouse/domestic partner, an employee may elect from $5,000 to $400,000 in Voluntary Term Life and AD&D insurance in increments of $5,000. Spouse/domestic partner elections may not exceed 100 percent of employee elections.* The Guarantee Issue amount (amount without evidence of insurability) is $50,000. During each Open Enrollment period, spouses/domestic partners may increase coverage without evidence of insurability by $5,000 up to the plan maximum of $400,000, as long as spouse/domestic partner election does not exceed 100 percent of the employee election.

For an eligible child, an employee may elect from $5,000 to $25,000 in Voluntary Term Life and AD&D Insurance in increments of $5,000. Eligible Children's elections may not exceed 100 percent of employee elections.* The Guarantee Issue amount (amount without evidence of insurability) is $25,000.* During each Open Enrollment period, children may increase coverage without evidence of insurability by $5,000 up to the plan maximum of $25,000, as long as the child election does not exceed 100 percent of employee election.

Supplemental Insurance Coverage

Cancer/Intensive Care Plans

Several state and UFSelect coverage-level options are available. An individual must be cancer-free to enroll in the state plans and the amount of coverage varies with the plan selected. Both the state and UFSelect plans have a first-occurrence benefit, which is a lump-sum payment made directly to the insured at the time cancer or other covered conditions are diagnosed. Plans also help pay toward the cost of transportation and family lodging—two major expenses not covered by primary health insurance.

Dental Coverage

Several state and UFSelect coverage options are currently available, offering pre-paid, PPO, direct reimbursement or indemnity plan options. Pre-paid plans generally have lower premiums, no deductibles and no pre-existing condition clauses, but you must choose a dentist on the plan. PPO and Indemnity plans have deductibles, but you may go to a dentist of your choice. Direct Reimbursement plans allow you to visit the dentist of your choice, pay for the services, turn in proof of payment and get paid—or the benefits payment may be directly assigned to the dental office.

Hospital Supplemental Plans

The State of Florida and UFSelect have several supplemental hospitalization insurance plan options available to provide benefits to fill the gap between what health insurance pays and what the hospital charges. These charges include hospital deductions, room and board charges, co-payments and any special fees.

State Short-Term Disability/UFSelect Long-Term Disability Insurance

The short-term and long-term disability insurances are designed to pay an income benefit in the event of a covered illness or injury.

State of Florida Short-term Disability provides partial income replacement for up to two years in the event of a disability or illness. The amount and the benefit period may vary depending upon your needs.

UFSelect Long-Term Disability covers 66 2/3 of the first $22,500 of your pre-disability earnings, reduced by any deductible income. The elimination period is 30 or 90 days. The minimum monthly benefit is the greater of $100 or 10 percent of any LTD benefit before reduction by deductible income. The benefits pay from the end of the elimination period until Social Security Normal Retirement Age (SSNRA) as long as you meet the definition of disability as specified in the policy. This includes a survivor's death benefit.

State and UFSelect Accident Insurance

Both plans provide 24-hour coverage for you and your dependents for accidental death and dismemberment. In addition, both provide benefits for initial care benefits, injury benefits, follow-up care and catastrophic accident benefits.

Florida Flexible Benefits Plan

All TEAMS and USPS employees paid from salary sources are eligible to participate in the state of Florida's Flexible Benefits Plan. This plan has five components:

1. The pre-tax premium plan deducts premium payments from your salary before social security and income taxation. University of Florida employees are enrolled automatically into this plan when they participate in any of the state group health or life insurance plans. Employees who do not wish to have health, life insurance or other state sponsored supplemental premiums paid on a pre-tax basis must sign a waiver to "opt out" of this benefit.
2. By participating in a medical reimbursement account (MRA), you may pay certain medical expenses with tax-free dollars. If you participate, you will deposit a certain amount of money into an account based on the amount you expect to spend on medical expenses not covered by insurance. The money is deducted automatically from your paycheck in equal installments 24 times a year for 12-month employees or 16 times for 9- or 10-month employees before taxes are computed. When you pay a medical expense that qualifies for reimbursement, you may either use your issued myMRA debit card or submit a claim form to the People First Service Center. Both methods of reimbursement will also require you to mail proof of the expense to People First. After review, the state sends you a reimbursement check. Thus, you ultimately pay certain medical expenses, such as eye glasses, prescriptions, health and dental deductibles and co-payments, with money that is not taxed because it is never reported as income. The catch here is that you must use all the money deposited into your reimbursement account by the end of the Flexible Benefits grace period—which is January 1 through March 15 of each calendar year—otherwise, you will lose it.

3. Employees enrolled in a Health Investor Health plan are eligible for a Health Savings Account (HSA) to help pay for eligible medical expenses with pre-tax dollars. Account balances carry forward from year to year and earn interest. HSAs are portable, meaning employees may take the account with them after terminating employment with UF. Employees enrolled in an HSA will receive a monthly employer contribution into their accounts of $41.66 (individual plans) or $83.33 (family plans) up to an annual contribution of $500 or $1,000, respectively, based on the FTE status. Employees may also elect to contribute their own pre-tax dollars into these accounts.

4. Limited-Purpose Medical Reimbursement Accounts are designed to coordinate with employees who elect to participate in the Health Investor HMO or PPO with an HSA. In addition to having an HSA, employees are also eligible to enroll in a Limited Medical Reimbursement Account to help cover other related expenses. Expenses eligible for reimbursement under the account include dental, vision and some preventive services which are not covered by the medical plan. Like the MRA, funds contributed to the account must be used by the end of the calendar year or they will be forfeited. This account is intended to be a supplement to the HSA because employees must first be enrolled in a Health Investor Health Plan.

5. A dependent daycare reimbursement account works in the same manner as does the medical reimbursement account. This account allows you to pay daycare expenses with tax-free dollars. Reimbursements must be filed using a claim form; a debit card option is not currently available.

Qualifying Status Change Events

Employees may make changes to their benefits only within the first 60 calendar days of a qualifying status change event or during a scheduled Open Enrollment. Changes made to insurance because of a qualifying status change event must be in keeping with the event.

A qualifying status change event is a major change in family or employment status, including marriage or divorce; the death of a spouse or dependent; the birth, adoption or legal guardianship of a child; a spouse's employment or termination of employment; your unpaid leave of absence or that of your spouse; a change from full- to part-time employment for you or your spouse; a change in health coverage attributable to your spouse's employment; and a change in a dependent's eligibility. For more information, please visit the Benefits website at www.hr.ufl.edu/benefits.

GatorPerks

Gator Perks is a voluntary benefits program designed especially for UF faculty and staff. The program offers an opportunity to take advantage of product and service discounts from designated vendors under the provision of an employee discount program. Employees may consult the discount provider directory at www.hr.ufl.edu/benefits/gatorperks for discount information and/or any proof of employment requirements.

University Retirement

University of Florida retirement plans are administered by the state of Florida. Eligibility for one of the following retirement plans is dependent upon your pay plan.

Florida Retirement System Pension Plan (FRS PP)

All employees are eligible to participate in the FRS Pension Plan. This is a defined benefit plan in which contributions are made by the University of Florida and the employee.

If you participate in the FPP and established membership in the Florida Retirement System (FRS) before July 1, 2011, you will have vested rights in the retirement system after six years of service and you may retire at age 62 with full benefits or at an earlier age with reduced benefits. Annual benefits are calculated on an average of your best five years of earnings multiplied by a percentage factor (1.60-1.68%) that is based on your age or years of service with the state. Thirty years of service also will give you full benefits upon retirement, regardless of your age.

If your membership in the FRS started after July 1, 2011, you will have vested rights after eight years of service and you may retire at age 65 with full benefits or at an earlier age with reduced benefits. Annual benefits are calculated on an average of your best eight years of earnings multiplied by a percentage factor (1.60-1.68%) that is based on your age or years of service with the state. Thirty-three years of service also will give you full benefits upon retirement, regardless of your age.

The FRS includes provisions for retirement income; disability income; credit for wartime military service prior to state employment if employed before January 1, 1987; beneficiary options; and annual cost-of-living increases for membership established prior to July 1, 2011. You may wish to supplement these provisions by considering the 403(b) and 457 plans (tax-deferred annuities) and Roth 403(b) (after-tax) plan available through University of Florida payroll deduction. (See the "Voluntary Plans" section for more information.)

If you leave state employment, regardless of your length of service, you may choose to leave your contributions in your account and retain your retirement credits in case you are reemployed with an FRS employer at a later date. (You may also receive a full refund of your contributions.)

Any previous FRS service will be credited to you immediately upon reemployment. Upon returning to work, you may purchase prior service credit for your previous refund. This amount is based on a percentage of your annual salary and would include interest compounded annually. Employees who plan to retire should contact University Retirement two to three months prior to their anticipated retirement date to begin the application process to receive benefits. Employees participating in the FRS Pension Plan will be eligible for benefits under Social Security coverage.

 Regular class refers to USPS, TEAMS and Academic Personnel who are not enrolled in the FRS Investment Plan or Optional Retirement Program and excludes UF police officers in the Special Risk Plan and those in Executive Service.*

Deferred Retirement Option Program (DROP)

Effective July 1, 1998, the FRS benefits were enhanced to provide additional choices for employees upon reaching normal retirement age.*

Participating employees may retire and have their FRS benefits accumulate in DROP and earn interest while continuing to work for an FRS employer for up to five years. When the designated DROP period ends, the employee must terminate employment. He or she will receive payment of the accumulated DROP benefits and then monthly FRS retirement pension benefits will begin.

 A few exceptions exist to the normal retirement eligibility criteria outlined above. The exception that occurs most frequently involves employees completing 30 years of service before reaching age 57. When this happens, they may defer DROP until they reach age 57; then, at age 57, the twelve-month window begins. Another exception to the standard regulation applies when an employee has gained 30 or more years of creditable service only from buying back eligible prior service and/or military time. In this instance, they can defer enrolling in DROP until they have completed 30 years of actual service and are at least 57 years old.*

Employees who meet either of the above exceptions may defer participating in DROP until they naturally reach normal eligibility. Then, upon reaching the normal eligibility criteria, they have twelve months in which to decide whether to participate in DROP. After the twelve months from the date of normal eligibility have passed, employees no longer are eligible to enroll in DROP. Employees covered by Special Risk should contact University Retirement for exceptions.

Employees covered by Special Risk should contact University Retirement for exceptions.

Several options are available for cashing out accrued vacation leave when entering DROP. For details, please visit www.hr.ufl.edu/retirement/other/specialpayplan.asp.

Florida Retirement System Investment Plan (FRS IP)

Exempt and non-exempt employees may choose instead to participate in the FRS Investment Plan (FRS IP). The FRS IP is a defined contribution plan in which the employer and employee contribute a percentage of the employee's salary into an investment account. Retirement benefits are determined by the amount contributed to an employee's account and gains/losses over time. Employees have until the end of the fifth month after their hire date to enroll, but are also given a second chance to elect to participate in the FRS IP. Visit www.myfrs.com or call the toll-free help line at 1-866-446-9377 for more information about this option. Employees participating in the FRS IP also are eligible for benefits under Social Security coverage.

State University System Optional Retirement Program (SUSORP)

The SUSORP is a defined contribution plan available to some administrative TEAMS employees, based on the employee's salary plan and benefit program assignment. The SUSORP is a defined contribution plan in which the employer and employee contribute a percentage of the employee's salary into an investment account. Retirement benefits are determined by the amount contributed to an employee's account and gains/losses over time. Eligible employees must enroll within 90 days from the date of their appointment or they will automatically be enrolled in the FRS Pension Plan. SUSORP enrollment is complete when a contract has been issued by an SUSORP Provider Company and when the proper State of Florida enrollment forms have been submitted to the Division of Retirement. The SUSORP is a 403(b) Tax Sheltered Annuity Program and enrollees are immediately vested. Participants may also choose to make additional voluntary contributions up to the maximum allowed by current IRS guidelines.

Voluntary Plans

403(b) and 457(b) tax-sheltered annuities

As a University of Florida employee, you may purchase fixed, variable, flexible or investment annuities or mutual funds from several companies by payroll deduction. These 403(b) and 457(b) tax-sheltered annuities result in a tax deferment for you because the dollars put into the program, as well as interest or other earnings, are not taxed until you receive them. To achieve maximum benefit, this program should be considered only for long-term saving, including retirement planning. If you choose to participate in 403(b) and/or 457(b) plans, you will need to review your deductions each calendar year to ensure that they do not exceed the maximum limits allowed by the IRS. Your tax-sheltered annuity company is available to assist you with these calculations.

Roth 403(b) After-Tax Salary Deferral

The Roth 403(b) plan enables you to pay taxes as contributions are made; you will not lower your taxable income for the contribution year. However, tax-free treatment will be applied to contributions and all earnings for a qualified distribution.

FLARE (Financial Literacy and Retirement Education)

University Retirement sponsors FLARE which is a program “illuminating the journey to financial security.” The program includes web-based tools, videos, articles and classroom training offered free of charge and open to all university employees. Visit www.hr.ufl.edu/training for more information.

Employee Relations

Human Resource Services Offices

The Employee Relations section of Human Resource Services encourages and promotes a positive working relationship among university employees through the efforts of its offices located in the Human Resources Building (E&G/Auxiliaries), Health Science Center (HSC), Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences (IFAS) and Physical Plant Division (PPD).

These offices provide a comprehensive, service-oriented employee relations agenda. This involves assistance with performance appraisals, disciplinary actions, grievances and appeals. Additional services include an employee medical evaluation program, employment and classification information, career counseling sessions, layoff coordination, exit interviews and the probationary employee follow-up program. Employee Relations also provides new employee orientation as well as payroll and benefits sign-up for the HSC, IFAS and PPD.

Standards for Performance and Conduct: USPS

The University of Florida encourages all staff members to contribute to a positive and productive environment in which to work and learn. With this in mind, the university has established Standards for Performance and Conduct. These standards seek to help administrators, supervisors and employees understand and interpret the university's expectations of its work force. Questions about performance and conduct standards should be directed to the appropriate Human Resource Services satellite office. Consultation services also are available.

While the majority of university employees never need discipline, exceptions do occur. Disciplinary actions may include oral reprimands, written reprimands, suspensions and dismissals, depending on the severity of the offense. Management, in accordance with applicable policy, has the discretion to determine the degree of discipline to administer for a particular offense.

The university's Standards for Performance and Conduct shall govern the manner and extent to which disciplinary action is taken, except that greater or lesser penalties may be imposed depending upon the seriousness of the offense and any aggravating or mitigating circumstances or as otherwise required by law.

To ensure equity in disciplinary action, the following categories act as guidelines for the university administrator and supervisor: unsatisfactory attendance; misconduct; negligence; and violation of provision of law, university regulation or departmental policy, procedure or practice that is verbal, written or understood. Off-the-job offenses of habitual drunkenness or drug addiction or conviction of any crime other than minor traffic violations also may result in disciplinary action.

The university also reserves the right to consider other discipline-related offenses collectively when in the best interest of the University of Florida. As a result, we all benefit from stronger employer-employee relationships at the University of Florida.

For additional information about disciplinary issues, please refer to university regulations or consult your supervisor or local Human Resource Services satellite office.

In instances where regulations conflict with policies and procedures as outlined in this handbook, please contact a Human Resource Services satellite office or other appropriate section in Human Resource Services.

Standards for Performance and Conduct: TEAMS

The appointment of a TEAMS employee may be terminated or suspended with or without pay for just cause, except that lesser penalties may be imposed depending upon the seriousness of the offense and any aggravating or mitigating circumstances or as otherwise required by law. Just cause is defined as incompetence; misconduct, whether on or off the job;; or unsatisfactory attendance.

Management, in accordance with applicable policy, has the discretion to determine the degree of discipline to administer for a particular offense. Disciplinary actions may include oral reprimands, written reprimands, suspensions and dismissals, depending on the severity of the offense.

Right of Appeal

The university does not approve arbitrary action and strives to ensure each disciplinary action is for just cause. Therefore, all USPS employees with permanent status and TEAMS employees have the right to appeal some disciplinary actions to an arbitrator.

You will be provided your notice of appeal rights as well as any appeal forms should an appealable action affect you.

Grievance Procedures

Because the University of Florida encourages informal resolution of grievances and complaints, your immediate supervisor is available to help you resolve any work-related concerns or misunderstandings. Should this type of informal resolution be unsuccessful, you may choose to initiate a formal grievance or complaint. USPS and TEAMS employees have different procedures; therefore, please contact your Human Resource Services satellite office for assistance.

Layoff: USPS

A USPS layoff is defined as a termination of employment due to abolishment of positions caused adverse financial circumstances; reallocation of resources; reorganization of degree or curriculum offerings or requirements; reorganization of academic or administrative structures, programs or functions; or curtailment of one or more programs or function; shortage of work; or a material change of duties.

A USPS staff member may be laid off at any time as a result of adverse financial circumstances; reallocation of resources; reorganization of degree or curriculum offerings or requirements; reorganization of academic or administrative structures, programs or functions; or curtailment of one or more programs or functions. A minimum 45 calendar-day notification of layoff will be provided.

For one year following his or her layoff, a USPS employee who has not otherwise been employed in an equivalent UF position will be offered reemployment when a vacancy occurs or a new position is established in the same classification, in the same unit, from which he or she was laid off, provided the employee meets the realistic qualifications for the position.

An employee appointed to fill a full- or part-time contract, grant or auxiliary position, which has been designated as a time-limited appointment, will not have layoff rights.

Layoff: TEAMS

A TEAMS staff member may be laid off at any time as a result of adverse financial circumstances; reallocation of resources; reorganization of degree or curriculum offerings or requirements; reorganization of academic or administrative structures, programs or functions; or curtailment of one or more programs or functions; shortage of work; or a material change of duties. A minimum 45 calendar-day notification of layoff will be provided. An employee appointed to fill a full- or part-time contract, grant or auxiliary position, which has been designated as a time-limited appointment, will not have layoff rights.

Your personnel file is kept and maintained by Processing and Records. This file may contain items such as your application, performance appraisals, deficiency reports, changes in work or personal status and any other information pertinent to your job at the University of Florida. You may review your file by contacting Recruitment and Staffing at 392-2HRS or employment@ufl.edu. Please provide at least a 24-hour notice. This office also can provide instructions regarding changes to your name, address, telephone number, etc.

As a University of Florida employee, all public records, including your personnel file, shall be made available, upon reasonable request, to any person requesting to review it. This includes home addresses and phone numbers as well as education and employment information. Copies of such documents will be provided upon request once appropriate payment is received. Exempt classifications include law enforcement personnel, firefighters, judges and attorneys.

For more information, please contact Recruitment and Staffing at (352) 392-2HRS or employment@ufl.edu.

Visa Status

An employee's visa status affects appointment eligibility as well as withholding for federal, Social Security and Medicare (FICA) taxes. Employees who fail to provide their departments with copies of their past or current visa documents will be responsible for paying their respective tax liability. The Foreign National Tax Information Form and the I-9 must be completed and sent to the University Tax Services and Immigration and Compliance Services at HRS if there is an extension or change of status for the employee. An employee will not be put on payroll without the report from the University Tax Services. Employees are encouraged to consult with their own tax advisers concerning their visa and tax status.

Employee Assistance Program

The Employee Assistance Program is available free of charge to all University of Florida faculty and staff—including OPS. The purpose of the EAP is to promote, maintain and support a positive and productive workplace. The EAP provides a wide range of services including individual employee evaluation and referral, consultation services for supervisors, workshops and training sessions and support groups.

Up to three visits for individual consultation are available by calling the EAP at (352) 392-5787 to schedule an appointment. These confidential sessions are provided by licensed mental health professionals employed by the University of Florida. If additional counseling is necessary, EAP professionals will refer employees to community providers and agencies that accept university health insurance or charge fees based on income level.

The EAP is administered by the Student Health Care Center's Student Mental Health Service and is housed in Room 242 of the Infirmary Building. The EAP entrance is separate from the student entrance, thus providing employees a private setting. The contact you have with the EAP will remain confidential.

For more information or to schedule an appointment, please contact the EAP Office at (352) 392-5787.

Business Communication Workshops

Communication skills and the ability to build relationships are critical competencies for success at UF. This means being able to develop, maintain and strengthen partnerships with others inside and outside the organization who can provide information, assistance and support. It also means being able to express oneself clearly and in a way that helps others understand.

The workshops in our Business Communication Series are designed with this in mind. Workshops range in topic from writing skills, including grammar and punctuation, to interpersonal communication and public speaking.

Attend three workshops to complete your “Business Communication” certification. These workshops also are integrated into the Pro3 Series’ personal excellence component of each administrative professional track: Fiscal Management, HR/Payroll Management and Academic Department Support.

Compliance Training

The University of Florida is committed to pursuing its academic mission in compliance with established federal, state and local rules, regulations, policies and procedures. By ensuring compliance, not only does our institution become a safer, more hospitable place to work and learn, but we also lower the risk of being financially penalized, including loss of funding for important research opportunities.

Many of the university’s compliance efforts have a required training component. Categories of compliance training include training for IT employees with access to sensitive data, employee training related to regulations of the Environmental Protection Agency, Social Security number and identity theft training, as well as other research compliance training. Various UF departments and training providers are responsible for conducting compliance training based on their areas of responsibility.

The Division of Environmental Health & Safety (EH&S) is responsible for informing the UF community of the general safety training that is required of all faculty and staff. More information about the UF Employee Safety Orientation can be located at www.ehs.ufl.edu/General/safety_orientation.htm.

In addition to EH&S, UF Training & Organizational Development is partnering with other training providers and departments in order to centralize information and record keeping related to compliance training efforts. Visit www.hr.ufl.edu/training/compliance for a current list of our partners.

Leadership Development

Designed for UF employees, our Leadership Development programs will help maximize the leadership qualities you already possess while enabling you to cultivate new strengths through education and training—all within a framework designed with the goals of the University of Florida in mind.

Two programs are available with participation decided via a competitive application process. Applications for these programs will be considered by a selection committee, with up to 20 participants being selected for Advanced Leadership for Academics and Professionals and up to 15 participants for the UF Academy. Our third program, Managing at UF: The Supervisory Challenge, is open to any employees interested in developing their supervisory skills.

Advanced Leadership for Academics and Professionals

Advanced Leadership for Academics and Professionals is a program designed for faculty in leadership positions as well as TEAMS employees at the level of assistant director and above to explore and develop skills to enable them to contribute at high levels in the organization for many years to come. A unique offering, the program sends approximately 20 participants through 6 events, each 1 to 2 days in length, which include seminars, assessments and access to the key leaders in the organization. Also appropriate for those making the "academic" to "administrator" transition. There is a fee for this program.

The UF Academy

The UF Academy is a program created for emerging leaders at our university. Designed for exempt employees up to and including the director level as well as interested faculty, the UF Academy prepares employees for higher-level responsibilities at the University of Florida. To participate, an employee must be an exempt employee with at least two years of supervisory or decision-making responsibility. Faculty and employees at the assistant director or director level may apply to participate with fewer than two years at the university. There is a fee for this program.

Managing at UF: The Supervisory Challenge

The Supervisory Challenge is designed to provide University of Florida supervisors, regardless of level or length of service, with meaningful information about successfully addressing the ultimate challenge: managing people for peak performance.

Based on a leadership/management competency model that reflects the knowledge, skills and behaviors necessary to be a successful manager at UF, the Supervisory Challenge series involves two types of training modules: certain modules are considered core course; others, electives.

To achieve the “Managing at UF” certification, participants will attend ten required workshops and two electives—for a total of 12 workshops. There is no time limit for completion; employees who choose to work toward supervisory certification may do so at their own pace.

To learn more about the leadership/management competency model upon which these workshops are built, please visit www.hr.ufl.edu/training/leadership/competencies.asp

myUFL System Training

The university community relies on an Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) system to support its business transactions—HR, Financial, Student Financials and Reporting—broadly called the myUFL system. UF Training and Organizational Development is proud to partner with subject-matter experts from offices throughout campus to provide both instructor-led and online workshops that describe and demonstrate how to use these systems and execute required business transactions at the university.

As a complement to these workshops, the myUFL Toolkits, found online at www.hr.ufl.edu/toolkits, provide job aids, such as simulations and instruction guides.

In some cases, training must be completed prior to requesting system access. This is noted on the Toolkit pages. Even when workshops are not required for system access, if you are responsible for executing business transactions on behalf of your work unit, you are strongly encouraged to attend the related workshop(s).

New Employee Orientation

All new TEAMS employees are expected to complete New Employee Orientation—either online or in-person—within their first month of employment. Group enrollment, which provides an opportunity to enroll in benefits within a new employee’s first 60 days, also is provided several times each month for both new TEAMS and benefits-eligible faculty members. To register, log on to the myUFL system and navigate to Main Menu, My Self Service, Training and Development, Request Training Enrollment.

Preventing Sexual Harassment

UF is committed to keeping the university free from sexual harassment and to ensure it’s a safe place in which to work and learn. This online workshop (45 minutes) is expected to be completed by all UF faculty and staff. To take the online sexual harassment prevention training course, log on to the myUFL system then navigate to My Self Service, Training and Development, Preventing Sexual Harassment.

Pro3 Series

The Pro3 Series includes workshops designed to help those in administrative positions at UF learn the key information and develop the key skills they need to be successful. The series involves three certification programs centered on the three broad areas of administrative work at UF – Fiscal Management, HR and Payroll Management and Academic Department Support. To learn more, visit the Pro3 section of HRS’s web site at www.hr.ufl.edu/training/pro3.

Retirement & Financial Planning Series

University Retirement provides information sessions on a range of topics designed to assist UF employees in their retirement and financial planning.

Employee Education Program

All full-time TEAMS, USPS and Academic Personnel employees (some exclusions apply) who have worked at the university for a minimum of six months are offered the opportunity to take post-secondary courses. This program is not available to OPS employees (including graduate assistants, residents, some Academic Personnel positions and part-time personnel or employees assigned to temporary, visiting or probationary appointments).

The EEP allows eligible employees to take up to six credits at the University of Florida each semester, while only TEAMS employees are eligible for expanded benefits including the ability to take courses at community/state colleges and vocational technology institutions in Florida. Employees who wish to participate in the EEP may take classes only at a qualifying institution nearest to their work unit; therefore, the EEP will typically only apply to classes take at UF or SFC (as appropriate) for employees who work in Gainesville or Alachua County. For more information, visit the Education Benefits section of our web site at www.hr.ufl.edu/education/eep.

Higher Education Opportunity for Children of Full-Time TEAMS Employees

Each year, Human Resource Services will choose at random, from a pool of eligible applicants, 50 children of TEAMS employees to participate in this program. For each child selected, the university will pay the in-state matriculation fees, less any Bright Futures scholarship award, for a maximum of 132 credit hours toward an undergraduate degree at the University of Florida or a public community/state college. For more information, visit the HEO section of our web site at www.hr.ufl.edu/education/heo.

Safety and Rights

Workers' Compensation

The university is committed to providing a safe and healthy environment in which faculty, staff and students may work and study. In order to help uphold this commitment, the Division of Environmental Health & Safety (EH&S) is responsible for informing the UF community of the general safety training that is required of all faculty and staff. More information about the UF Employee Safety Orientation can be located at http://www.ehs.ufl.edu/General/safety_orientation.htm. The following information is designed to promote a general understanding of the university's responsibilities under the state of Florida Workers' Compensation Law. The information provided does not necessarily have the full effect of the law and/or its regulations.

As a university employee, you will want to practice good safety habits and observe appropriate precautions at all times for the protection of yourself and others. Even then, accidents and injuries on the job can happen. If you sustain a work-related injury, your medical expenses and a portion of your earnings are covered under the University of Florida workers' compensation program.

Our workers' compensation program is built around an insurance plan provided by the university and the state of Florida. The plan has two components. First, it pays for all reasonable and necessary health care expenses if you, as a university employee, become injured or develop an occupational disease due to work-related conditions. Second, it provides payment to you for part of the wages you might lose if any such injury or illness disables you for more than seven calendar days. Workers' compensation coverage begins the first day you are on the job.

Under the first component, health care is provided through a designated network of medical and dental care providers. As a university employee, you must use this network of providers in order for your expenses to be covered. This provider network ensures that you receive the appropriate medical and dental care should you sustain a work-related injury or illness. The network also ensures that you receive items such as medications, braces, crutches and other medical supplies when prescribed by a network provider.

Under the second component, if you are unable to work due to your injury, you generally are entitled to receive a wage benefit equal to approximately 66 2/3 percent of your pre-injury average weekly wage. By law, however, a wage benefit may not exceed the maximum benefit in effect for the year in which an injury occurs. Wage benefits basically are determined by combining an employee's total earnings (plus certain other benefits) for each of the 13 weeks before the injury and then dividing that total by 13.

The university provides an additional leave benefit to faculty, TEAMS and USPS employees who sustain a compensable work-related injury. This leave benefit is called Workplace Injury Leave (WIL). Workplace Injury Leave should be used only when a workers' compensation authorized medical care provider documents that an employee is unable to work due to their compensable injury and/or when a work unit cannot provide an employee with modified duty work within the employee's medical restrictions. Eligible full-time employees may use up to 40 hours of WIL during a fiscal year. If you are not a full-time employee, your WIL benefit is prorated accordingly.

If you have questions, please contact Workers' Compensation at 392-4940 or workcomp@ufl.edu.

What to Do If You Are Injured While Performing Your Job

1. Notify your supervisor immediately. You/your supervisor must then contact the University of Florida Workers' Compensation Office (UFWC) at 392-4940 or workcomp@ufl.edu. UFWC will complete a First Report of Injury or Illness form for you. Even if you do not think you need medical care, you should contact UFWC to discuss your injury.
2. If you require medical attention, contact UFWC prior to going to a medical care provider. UFWC will assist you in selecting an authorized medical care provider to treat your injury, thereby insuring that you do not incur any expenses.
3. Remember to seek treatment only from an authorized medical care provider and follow all guidelines as set forth in UF's Workers' Compensation Employee Handbook. If you have any questions, please contact UFWC for guidance.
4. When you arrive at an authorized medical care provider's facility, be prepared to show proof of identification.
5. Provide both your supervisor and UFWC with medical documentation of your initial work status and any subsequent changes to it. Your authorized medical care provider must support, in writing, all injury-related time away from work.
6. Contact your supervisor daily or according to a schedule established by your supervisor in order to keep him/her informed about your current work status, ongoing treatment and prognosis for recovery.
7. Attend all of your scheduled medical appointments. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination.
8. Read UF's modified duty program statement. When your authorized medical care provider releases you to return to work (regardless of your assigned limitations or restrictions), you must be willing and available to return to the workplace.

Contact UFWC:

- If you are uncertain as to which medical care providers are authorized providers.
- If you are unable to attend a scheduled medical appointment.
- For assistance with recording your time and/or leave for doctor appointments, leaves of absence and when you are receiving workers' compensation salary replacement benefits.
- For assistance if you have concerns related to your claim or require additional medical attention.
- If your work unit does not provide you with modified duty work.

Remember: Absence from work due to a work-related injury or illness will count toward your Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) entitlement as set forth in the Act.

Modified Duty Program

The University of Florida appreciates and values the workplace efforts and contributions of its employees. As a reflection of that appreciation, the university created the Workers' Compensation Modified Duty Program in 1994. The purpose of the program and its statement of policy are to ensure that each injured employee is provided the opportunity to remain an active and productive member of the university community. To that end, every effort is made to provide modified duty work to those employees who sustain a workers' compensation compensable injury.

The policy and provisions of the Modified Duty Program are administered by the UF Workers' Compensation office (UFWC) and go into effect when an injured employee's authorized medical care provider assigns physical restrictions to the employee and then releases that employee to return to work. From that point forward, the employee must be available to return to work and perform duties identified by the department that are within the restrictions established by the employee's authorized medical care provider. Responsibility for ensuring that modified duty work is provided to injured employees rests with the appropriate chair, director or vice president.

The Workers' Compensation Modified Duty Program Policy establishes the following obligations and limitations on departments and injured employees:

- All departments must provide temporary modified duty work to injured employees. UFWC is available to assist administrators with clarifying, identifying and assigning modified duty work in accordance with the written restrictions provided by the injured employee's authorized medical care provider
- If providing modified duty work causes the injured employee's work unit difficulty, the Chair, Director, Dean or Vice President may assign the employee to a different work unit. All costs, however, remain the responsibility of the injured employee's primary work unit.
- Injured employees must perform assigned modified duty work to the best of their ability within the restrictions established by their authorized medical care provider. Departments, however, are under no obligation to provide work to employees who fail to make a good faith effort to perform such work. Employees who refuse to cooperate with and/or participate in the program jeopardize their benefits and face discipline up to and including termination.
- All modified duty work is of a temporary nature and may not exceed 90 consecutive calendar days from its initial commencement without the authorization of the Vice President for Human Resource Services. The obligation to provide modified duty work ends when employees reach maximum medical improvement (MMI), when up to 90 consecutive calendar days have passed or when a department's efforts to assist an employee prove to be counterproductive.

Human Resource Services is available to assist a department if an employee is unable to resume the essential functions of his/her regular job once MMI is assigned, at the conclusion of the modified duty work assignment or when a department's efforts to assist an employee prove to be counterproductive.

Equal Employment Opportunity

The University of Florida is committed to nondiscrimination on the basis of race, color, sexual orientation, marital or veteran status, sex, religion, creed, national origin, political opinions or affiliations, age or disability. The policy applies to students, academic personnel and staff. It also applies to the university's relations with contractors and suppliers of goods and services as well as to the use of university facilities.

The university believes in equal employment opportunity practices that conform to both the spirit and the letter of all laws against discrimination. To comply with this commitment to nondiscrimination, equal opportunity and equity in employment practices, the university follows the employment procedures set forth in university regulations and policies and the university's Affirmative Action Plan.

The University of Florida shall assure each applicant or employee, using both objective and subjective merit principles (without regard to that person's race, color, sex, religion, creed, national origin, marital status, political opinions or affiliations or age), an equal opportunity in all university practices, programs, policies and procedures. This activity includes but is not limited to recruitment, examination, appointment, training, promotion, demotion, compensation, retention, discipline and separation.

UF shall likewise assure equal opportunity/equal access to any person with disabilities, who is an applicant or employee, with respect to the employment practices specified above. Equal opportunity is assured unless the disability involved prevents satisfactory performance of the work required. Preference in appointment and retention is given to eligible veterans and spouses of veterans, as protected under the Vietnam Era Veteran's Readjustment Act and Chapter 295.07, Florida Statutes, for designated positions.

Any applicant or employee who believes that he or she has been discriminated against may file a complaint with the Employee Relations at 903 West University Avenue, P.O. Box 115003, (352) 392-1072. All complaints shall be investigated in accordance with the procedures set forth by university regulations and policies or law.

Reasonable Accommodation

Upon request, the university provides reasonable accommodations to persons with disabilities. Under the employment provisions (Title I) of the Americans with Disabilities Act or ADA (PL 101-336), employers are required to provide “reasonable accommodation” as a means of overcoming unnecessary barriers that prevent or restrict employment opportunities for otherwise qualified individuals with disabilities.

The ADA defines a qualified individual with a disability as a person who “satisfies the requisite skill, experience, education and other job-related requirements of the employment position such individual holds or desires and who, with or without reasonable accommodation, can perform the essential functions of such position.” The term “reasonable accommodation” means a modification or adjustment to the job, the work environment or the way things usually are done that enables a qualified individual with a disability to enjoy an equal employment opportunity. Essential functions are, by definition, those that the individual who holds the job would have to perform, with or without reasonable accommodation, in order to be considered qualified for the position.

It is the policy of the University of Florida to extend reasonable accommodation to the known limitations of qualified persons with disabilities who are employees or applicants for employment, in order that these individuals may perform the essential functions of a position and/or participate in the employment application process. In general, it is the responsibility of the applicant or employee with a disability to inform the employer that an accommodation is needed in order for him or her to participate in the application process, to perform the essential job functions or to receive benefits and privileges of employment.

All requests for accommodations will be evaluated on an individual basis to determine the appropriateness of the request. Moreover, employment opportunities shall not be denied because of the need to make reasonable accommodations to an individual’s disability. To request a reasonable accommodation, contact your immediate supervisor and make your request known. At that time, it will be necessary to complete the “Reasonable Accommodation Based on Disability Request Form found online at www.ada.ufl.edu/services.

If you have questions at any time during the process, you may contact the ADA Compliance Office, located at EHS Building 179 Newell Drive, PO Box 115055, by e-mail at osfield@ufl.edu or by telephone at 392-1591 (voice), 846-1046 (TDD). For more information, visit UF’s Americans With Disabilities Act Compliance Office web site at www.ada.ufl.edu.

Identification of Special Needs

Individuals are encouraged to report any special needs to their supervisor and ADA Office so that they may be protected during emergency procedures. The employee should make arrangements with his or her department if assistance exiting a building during an emergency is needed. For more information on emergency evacuation procedures, go to www.ada.ufl.edu.

Medical and Disabled Parking Information

The University of Florida provides special parking to individuals with both temporary and permanent disabilities. Employees who qualify for either the permanent or temporary Florida disabled parking placard (state-issued at county tag agencies) may qualify for a reserved parking space.

For employees utilizing a state-issued disabled parking placard, the appropriate UF decal will be required to park in one of the lots or garages maintained by UF. The university issues a disabled decal to employees with either a temporary or permanent state-issued placard. To apply for the UF disabled decal, contact

Policies to Know

Acceptable Use of Computing Resources Policy

All university employees are responsible for understanding their rights and responsibilities regarding the use of the university's computing resources as well as the university's policies about their use. To report violations, please contact abuse@ufl.edu. For more information, please visit the Computing and Network Services web site at www.cns.ufl.edu or the Office of the General Counsel's site at www.generalcounsel.ufl.edu.

HIV/AIDS Policy

The policy of the University of Florida is to assess the needs of students or employees with HIV infection on a case-by-case basis. With the permission of the affected individual (whether student, academic personnel or staff member), the Director of the Student Health Care Center will assist in the coordination of resources and services.

The confidentiality of the individual's HIV status, as well as the individual's welfare, is respected. Breach of confidentiality of information obtained by a university employee in an official university capacity may result in disciplinary action. Based on current medical information concerning risk of infection, the university does not isolate persons with HIV infection or AIDS from other individuals in the educational or work setting. Furthermore, the university supports the continued participation, to the fullest extent reasonably possible, of these individuals in the campus education/work environment.

It also is the policy of the university to provide education that seeks to prevent the spread of HIV infection. Those at risk for HIV infection are encouraged to get tested; those who are infected are urged to seek treatment. With current advances in HIV/AIDS treatment, early intervention can be crucial to maintaining well-being and delaying complications of illness.

In keeping with the Americans with Disabilities Act, the university considers HIV/AIDS to be a disability. Existing support services can be utilized by students or employees who are disabled by HIV infection or AIDS.

For more information, please contact the official University of Florida resource: the Director of the Student Health Care Center at (352) 392-1161. You also may contact Employee Relations at 392-1072 or emprel@ufl.edu or your Human Resource Services satellite office for assistance.

Drug-Free Workplace Policy

The University of Florida is committed to providing a campus environment free of the abuse of alcohol and the illegal use of alcohol and other drugs. To enhance this commitment, the university has adopted and implemented programs that seek to prevent the illicit use of drugs and the abuse of alcohol by university community members.

The unlawful manufacture, distribution, dispensation, possession or use of a controlled substance or the unlawful possession and use of alcohol are harmful and prohibited in and on property owned and controlled by the University of Florida or any other University of Florida facility. No employee or student is to report to work, class or any university activity while under the influence of illegal drugs or alcohol.

The use of alcoholic beverages by members of the University of Florida community is at all times subject to the alcoholic beverage laws of the state of Florida, applicable county and city regulations and the University Alcohol Policy, Regulation 6C1-2.019, Florida Administrative Code.

The possession and use of controlled drugs by members of the University of Florida community must at all times be in accordance with the provisions of Florida law, the regulations of the Board of Education and the regulations of the University of Florida.

Under Florida law, no person may possess substances regulated under the provisions of Chapter 893, Florida Statutes (controlled substances and “designer drugs”), unless dispensed and used pursuant to prescription or otherwise authorized by law. Sale and delivery of such substances are prohibited unless authorized by law.

University of Florida Sanctions

Violation of university policies and applicable laws by an employee or student is grounds for disciplinary action up to and including termination or expulsion in accordance with applicable University of Florida and Board of Trustees regulations and/or collective bargaining agreements.

Student organizations also may be sanctioned for violation of these policies and laws. Additionally, a violation may be reason for evaluation and treatment for a drug- and/or alcohol-use disorder or referral for prosecution consistent with local, state and federal criminal law. Disciplinary action against a student or employee by the university does not preclude the possibility of criminal charges against that individual. The filing of criminal charges similarly does not preclude action by the university.

Federal Drug-Free Workplace Act Requirements

The following are required of the university and its employees:

1. An employee shall notify his or her supervisor or other appropriate management representative of any criminal drug statute conviction for a violation occurring in the workplace no later than five days after such conviction.
2. The university shall notify any federal contracting agency within ten days of having received notice that an employee engaged in the performance of such contract or grant has had a criminal drug statute conviction for a violation occurring in the workplace.
3. The university will take appropriate personnel action against any employee who is convicted for a violation occurring in the workplace or will require the employee’s satisfactory participation in a drug abuse assistance or rehabilitation program.

Please contact Employee Relations at 392-1072 or emprel@ufl.edu with questions you may have. Detailed information about alcohol consumption, the use of illegal drugs and the misuse of prescription and other drugs may be obtained by calling Health Education in the Student Health Care Center at (352) 392-1161.

Please note: There are certain types of jobs at the University of Florida that may require pre-employment and other forms of alcohol and drug testing. Please contact the university’s CMVO Drug Testing Program Office by contacting (352) 392-4940 or workcomp@ufl.edu.

Fraudulent or Other Wrongful Acts Policy

Staff with a reasonable basis for believing fraudulent or wrongful acts have occurred have a responsibility to report such incidents to the Office of Audit and Compliance Review (OACR) and should not confront the individuals who may be investigated. Employees also should not initiate investigations on their own because such actions can compromise any ensuing investigations. The OACR will work in consultation with Human Resource Services, university administrators, law enforcement personnel when appropriate and other levels of management in instances where fraud, including workers' compensation fraud or other wrongful acts are suspected. This office also is available to assist with ensuring proper internal controls are in place.

In those instances where the OACR's investigation indicates the probability of criminal activity, the investigation will be turned over to the university police or other appropriate law enforcement agency. An investigation will be completed expeditiously but always in a thorough manner and in accordance with established procedures. It is the duty of all employees to cooperate fully with those performing an investigation pursuant to this policy. The constitutional rights of those involved always will be observed. When appropriate, the results of an investigation conducted by the OACR will be communicated in a written report to the appropriate university administrators and to the president of the university.

Employees found to have participated in fraudulent or other wrongful acts will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment and prosecution if appropriate. Human Resource Services is available to assist with disciplinary matters involving TEAMS and USPS employees and should be consulted prior to taking such actions. Individuals who report suspected fraudulent or other wrongful acts under Section 112.3187, Florida Statutes (Whistle Blower's Law) and those cooperating with the ensuing investigation will be protected from retaliatory actions.

Sexual Harassment Policy

The University of Florida is committed to maintaining a safe and comfortable workplace and academic environment. Our sexual harassment policy is available in the Office of Human Resource Services and its web site at www.hr.ufl.edu/eo. Sexual harassment of employees, students or visitors will not be tolerated by the university.

Sexual harassment occurs in a variety of situations that tend to share a commonality: the inappropriate introduction of sexual activities or comments in a situation where sex would otherwise be irrelevant. Sexual harassment is a form of sex discrimination and a violation of state and federal laws as well as of the policies and regulations of the university.

The university's policy is to protect all members of the community from sexual harassment. As a result, the responsibility for reporting incidents of sexual harassment also must rest with all members of the university community. Any employee or student who has knowledge of sexual harassment is encouraged to report it to Title IX Coordinator, (352) 392-2477. Employees with supervisory responsibility who have knowledge of sexual harassment are required to report the matter directly to a university official. Any co-worker or student who has knowledge of sexual harassment is strongly encouraged to report it promptly. It is the university's goal to process complaints of harassment in a prompt and responsive manner to enable appropriate corrective action.

Call the Title IX Coordinator at (352) 392-2477 with your questions or concerns about sexual harassment, including information about reporting procedures. For information about training related to sexual harassment prevention, please visit www.hr.ufl.edu/eo/training.htm.

Software Copyright Policy

The principles for using and managing software are derived from U.S. copyright law, the Florida Computer Crimes Act and legal agreements in the form of licenses and purchase agreements. That foundation makes the University of Florida's basic policy governing software clear.

All Academic Personnel, staff and students of the university are required and expected to obey the laws and legal agreements governing software use. Failure to do so can lead to monetary damages and/or criminal penalties for the individual violator. Because such violations also are against university policies and regulations, disciplinary action will be taken as appropriate. The software copyright policy is provided on the basis of endorsement by the Council on Information Technologies and Services (May 12, 1994).

Guidelines for following this policy can be found at UF's Information Technology Policies web site at www.it.ufl.edu/policies/copyright.html.

Workplace Violence Policy

As a part of the University of Florida's goal to maintain a safe and comfortable workplace and academic setting, the university has established standards of conduct that cover every member of our community. Specifically, violent acts, threats (direct or implied), unlawful harassment, verbal or physical abuse, stalking, intimidation and other disruptive behavior will not be tolerated and will result in appropriate university response including disciplinary action and criminal prosecution.

As further support of this commitment, the university has established a three-tiered program that focuses on prevention, threat management and related behavioral issues and crisis intervention. Follow the link below to read this policy, which includes insight as to steps to take under certain circumstances and resource contact information.

Safety and security are personal and shared responsibilities. While all supervisors and administrators are called on to report inappropriate behavior immediately, the collective involvement of every member of the university community is important and appreciated.

Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA)

The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) is federal legislation designed to limit gaps in health insurance coverage and to improve the privacy of personal health information. Compliance with HIPAA at UF involves completing one or more required training courses and signing a confidentiality agreement. UF's HIPAA Privacy Officer is responsible for tracking this information.

Full HIPAA compliance by all members of the workforce at UF helps ensure that patients and their families have the privacy of their health information protected. HIPAA regulations set tight boundaries on the use and release of health records and give patients more control over and access to their health information, enabling them to find out how their information may be used and about certain disclosures of their information that have been made.

HIPAA regulations provide clear standards for protecting personal health information, including billing records and fund transfers, recorded or transmitted via paper, e-mail, computers and/or telephone. They also prohibit individuals from looking into patient records without a well-defined professional reason and place limitations on who can access such records. Clinical departments and units performing HIPAA-related business operations must make sure all of their systems, security measures and procedures meet HIPAA requirements. HIPAA includes both civil and criminal penalties for those who violate patients' privacy rights. Additionally, if you are found to be in violation of this law, appropriate disciplinary action may be taken by UF up to and including dismissal.

For further information about HIPAA, visit the UF Privacy web site at privacy.health.ufl.edu/ or contact the Privacy Office at (352) 273-5094.

Should any portion of this handbook be found unenforceable and deemed invalid, such finding shall not invalidate the entire handbook, but only the subject provision.
