

Translation method of LA MORICETTERIE with Google translate or Bing translator

The screenshot displays two windows side-by-side. The left window is Google Translate, showing the translation of a French article about the Centre Culturel Anne-Marie Morisset. The right window is Adobe Reader, showing the original French text of the article. The article describes the Centre Culturel Anne-Marie Morisset, a private non-profit institution built on a 3600 square meter plot in Port-au-Prince, Haiti, in 2011. It was created through the initiative of four heirs of Anne-Marie Morisset: Jocelyne Trouillot-Lévy, Michel-Rolph Trouillot, Evelyne Trouillot-Ménard, and Lyonel Trouillot. The center provides cultural services to the community of Delmas and aims to provide cultural services to the community of Delmas and

1. In one half of your screen, you open either Google translate at <http://translate.google.com> or Bing translator at <http://www.microsofttranslator.com> Then, you select translation from French to English.
2. In the other half of your screen, you open LA MORICETTERIE with Acrobat Reader or an equivalent PDF viewer. There you COPY the article that you want to translate and PASTE it into Google translate or Bing translator. Then you push translate to read the translation which is not always of high quality but allows a basic understanding of the French text.
