

2016 ORIENTATION

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO | THE COLLEGE

WELCOME NEW STUDENTS!

On behalf of the College of the University of Chicago, we would like to welcome you and your family to the University. You are joining a growing community of 350,000 students, alumni, parents, faculty, staff, and friends from around the world who will enrich your education every day.

This Orientation Book (O-Book) will serve as your primary resource for the schedule of Orientation activities and meetings. Review the O-Book carefully to learn about campus resources and activities, as well as to ensure that you know when to attend required meetings and when to register for Autumn Quarter classes. You can also access the O-Book online and via your mobile device by visiting obook.uchicago.edu. You'll also be able to download the Orientation events to your calendar.

Throughout the week-long Orientation program, our staff and over 200 student volunteers (collectively referred to as O-Aides), including Student Directors, Orientation Leaders, House O-Aides, Registration O-Aides, and Resident Masters' O-Aides will be on hand to answer your questions. Our community cares about your success and we hope you will take advantage of the many opportunities and resources presented to you this week. They will come in handy over the course of your education in the College, and you will learn how they will benefit you for the rest of your life.

Orientation is coordinated by the College Programming Office (CPO), located in Harper Memorial 152. If we can help in any way during Orientation, as well as during the academic year, please call us, e-mail us, or visit us in person. You can also find information at orientation.uchicago.edu and at my.uchicago.edu in the "Orientation" tab of the Incoming Student pagelet.

If you enjoy Orientation, be sure to like us on Facebook at facebook.com/UChicagoCPO and keep up with the CPO and other College news by following us on Twitter @UChicagoCollege. Also, follow TeamUChicago on Snapchat. Feel free to tag O-Week tweets with #OWeekUChicago and #UChicago2020!

We hope you enjoy this exciting week—a chance to meet your classmates and become acclimated to campus before classes begin!

In the interest of developing strong House communities, during O-Week students are limited to eating in the dining locations where their House Tables are located.

During O-Week, it is important to plan ahead and leave extra time at popular meal times to avoid long lines and being late to scheduled events and meetings. Please note that the dining commons close one hour earlier on Fridays than on other nights and close at 2:30 PM on Saturdays.

★ OVERVIEWS OF THE CORE

ii The College's Core provides an introduction to the tools of inquiry used in every discipline to establish the habits of mind and the critical, analytic, and writing skills that are expected of an educated, well-informed member of modern society. As these requirements cross a number of disciplines, both qualitative and quantitative in nature, these sessions will consist of two parts, with faculty representing different Collegiate divisions addressing both meetings.

FOR STUDENTS INTERESTED IN THE SCIENCESRockefeller Chapel, 5850 South Woodlawn Avenue

For the first part of this meeting, faculty from the Humanities and Social Sciences will help students understand the options to complete the Core requirements for the Humanities, Social Sciences, and Civilizations. The Core sequences for Hum, Sosc, and Civ provide a common experience for all College students by introducing original texts, formulating original questions based on those texts, and cultivating the understanding of fundamental concepts, theories, and philosophies. The second part of the meeting will feature faculty from the Biological and Physical Sciences, as well as Mathematics. There will be a discussion of the core options in these areas as they relate to specific majors in the sciences.

FOR STUDENTS INTERESTED IN THE HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCESReynolds Club, Mandel Hall, 5706 South University Avenue

There are a number of options for students not intending to pursue a career in the sciences to satisfy the general education requirements in the Biological, Physical, and Mathematical Sciences. These courses are intended to be taught with a high level of intellectual rigor, but at a level accessible to students with more limited prior exposure. The first part of this meeting will be hosted by faculty in the sciences, who will describe these options and help students choose the ones best suited to their interests. Following that, faculty from the Humanities and Social Sciences will present descriptions of the Core sequences in those areas, as well as in Civilization Studies. The characteristic features of sequences and the relationship between Core courses and various majors will be discussed, as will study abroad options.

ABOUT CAMPUS TELEPHONE NUMBERS

The majority of telephones on campus, including the ones in your dorm rooms, use the Cisco VoIP telephone system, with prefixes of 702, 834, or 753. Any campus phone number that begins with these three digits can be reached from other campus phones by dialing only the last five numbers, such as 2.8616 for the College Programming Office (773.702.8616). Most of the phone numbers you will find around campus, including the ones in this booklet, only list the last five numbers. To call from a personal phone line, if the 5-digit extension starts with a 2, you'd dial 773.70 before the extension, if it begins with a 4, you'd dial 773.83 before the extension and if it begins with a 3, you'd dial 773.75 before the extension.

STUDENT EMERGENCY RESPONSE SYSTEMS

To contact the University of Chicago Police, dial 123 or 2.8181 from any campus telephone. Off campus, dial 773.702.8181. The Student Emergency Response System can also be accessed via the UChicago phone app by tapping the emergency icon.

To use one of the more than 300 emergency telephones (identifiable by their blue lights and white cases) around the neighborhood, press the red button to immediately contact the University of Chicago Police Department (UCPD). To contact Chicago Police, dial 911 or 9.911 from any campus phone.

In the event of any critical incident, students can speak with the Dean-on-Call (DoC) or the Sexual Assault Dean-on-Call (SADoC) 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and 365 days a year. The DoC or the SADoC can be reached by calling the UCPD Dispatch at 773.702.8181 and asking for the Dean-on-Call or Sexual Assault Dean-on-Call. The dispatcher will notify the DoC or SADoC and the DoC or SADoC will contact the caller. A caller does not have to tell the dispatcher why they are calling or give their name. Students can also page the DoC or SADoC directly, by dialing 773.834.HELP (4357), and following the instructions on the automated system. Students should be prepared to punch in their call-back number. The DoC or SADoC will contact the caller back. Visit deanoncall.uchicago.edu or help.uchicago.edu for more information about these services.

In the event that a student experiences or witnesses an incident of bias, students have the opportunity to speak with the on-call Bias Response Team (BRT) Member. The direct number for the on-call Bias Response Team member is 773.834.HELP (4357). Just like the DoC and SADoC, a BRT Member is on call 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and 365 days a year. The on-call BRT member is available to inform students how to seek guidance and support for bias-related incidents that occur on campus.

If you are the victim of a crime, witness a crime, or feel suspicious about something, there are many ways to call for help by using campus telephones or the emergency telephones throughout the Hyde Park neighborhood. The University of Chicago Police Department is the main resource for students who have been victims of crime or the witnesses of crime, but they are also able to direct students to other services and individuals that can help with unique cases.

History

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

The University of Chicago was founded in 1890 by John D. Rockefeller, and its first president was William Rainey Harper, who agreed to become president on the condition that he be allowed to establish a university that would be unlike any other. He conceived of a university that would emphasize the creation of new knowledge and “make the work of investigation primary.” To this end, the University has always been dedicated to excellence in research and has sought only the most distinguished scholars for its faculty.

IMPACT ON HIGHER EDUCATION

Over the years, the University and its faculty have had a major impact on American higher education. Faculty scholarship has shaped several essential disciplines and established important and distinctive “Chicago schools” in such disparate fields as anthropology, economics, evolutionary biology, law, literary criticism, and sociology.

STRUCTURE, STATISTICS & ARCHITECTURE

The University is composed of an undergraduate College, five graduate divisions (Biological Sciences, Humanities, Institute of Molecular Engineering, Physical Sciences, and Social Sciences), six graduate professional schools (Booth School of Business, Divinity School, Harris School of Public Policy Studies, Law School, Pritzker School of Medicine, and School of Social Service Administration), and the Graham School of Continuing Liberal and Professional Studies. The University also includes libraries, research institutes, clinics, museums, theaters, and a university press.

The University’s English Collegiate Gothic buildings, built of gray Indiana limestone, were designed to frame shady, green quadrangles. Contemporary campus buildings—designed by Eero Saarinen, Ludwig Mies van der Rohe, and Rafael Viñoly—have been designed in keeping with the original Gothic theme while drawing from the tradition of great modern architecture for which the city of Chicago is famous.

On July 1, 2006, Robert J. Zimmer became the University’s thirteenth President.

MESSAGE FROM YOUR STUDENT ALUMNI COMMITTEE:

They* say the first people who will live to be 150 have already been born. You don’t have to be a math major to figure out that, in comparison, four years is a pretty short amount of time. In the next 12 quarters, you’ll become part of a House, join half a dozen RSOs, drink a dollar shake on a cold winter day, and maybe even learn some delta-epsilon proofs along the way, or at least try out an Econ class.

But even before you step foot in the Reg, you’ve already become a part of the ultra-cool group of UChicago Alumni. Members include Bernie Sanders, AB’64 (former Presidential Candidate), Misha Collins, AB’97 (actor on the C.W.’s hit TV show Supernatural), Philip Glass, AB’56 (revolutionary composer), David Axelrod, AB’76 (campaign advisor to Barack Obama), and Edwin Hubble, AB 1910 (namesake of the Hubble Space Telescope), just to name a few. And that’s where SAC comes in. The UChicago Student Alumni Committee knows how important it is to keep current and former Maroons connected. These connections help students get jobs after graduation, foster a lifelong spirit of UChicago pride that makes alumni eager to give back, and form lifelong friendships regardless of what city or country you’re in.

So, when you’re wandering campus and happen upon a poster for Dinner with 12 Maroons, a booth for Philanthropy Week, or see Phil the Phoenix and he insists that you “take a free t-shirt and try the cake balls,” you can blame your neighborhood Student Alumni Committee. And if planning these events or getting exclusive one-on-one time with some A-list UChicago alums sounds like a good time, check us out at sac.uchicago.edu or on Facebook.

TEN TRADITIONS

EVERY NEW STUDENT SHOULD KNOW

1. ORIENTATION

Orientation itself is a tradition! Each year since 1934, the University of Chicago has set time aside before classes begin (sometimes as many as 15 days!) to provide an introduction to the University for all new students. Faculty, staff, and returning students have worked together to help incoming students register for their classes and get to know Chicago—both the city and the school.

2. MAROON MONDAY

Show off your UChicago pride by wearing maroon every Monday! Throughout the year, you can join UChicago Dining, Center for Leadership and Involvement, and the Student Alumni Committee in your maroon for photos with Phil the Phoenix, free giveaways, great treats, and Maroon Monday swag.

3. SUMMER BREEZE - CARNIVAL & CONCERT

Summer Breeze is an annual event at the University of Chicago, produced by the University's Major Activities Board (MAB). MAB is a recognized student organization (RSO) that brings concerts and other entertainment events to the University of Chicago campus. The event usually takes place in May, and includes outdoor carnival activities, and an outdoor concert in the evening. Past performers include Ludacris, Azealia Banks, Nelly, T-Pain, and Jeremih, among many others.

ALMA MATER

4. KNOW YOUR ALMA MATER

Be among the few, proud University of Chicago students who actually know the words to the Alma Mater. Practice and by graduation you'll be able to belt it out with the rest of your class!

5. SHAKE DAY

This is one tradition that really can't be beat. Where else can you get a fabulous shake in your choice of flavors with whipped cream, sprinkles, and a cherry, FOR JUST $1?! That's right; Wednesday is Shake Day at the C-Shop/Einstein's in the Reynolds Club. Even if it's -2 degrees outside, the line often snakes out the door—it's a tradition not to be missed. Gluten-free shakes are also available!

6. SCAV HUNT

You might want to start preparing now for this tradition. While only a tradition since 1987, the Annual University of Chicago Scavenger Hunt has certainly become a student favorite. In 2011 UChicago's Scav Hunt broke the Guinness World Record for the world's largest scavenger hunt and in 2012 Scav Hunt was featured in the July issue of the New Yorker. Beginning at midnight on a Thursday morning and ending on "Judgment Day" the following Sunday, students are challenged with tasks that require them to do everything from building an aquarium and a nuclear reactor to obtaining a live tiger. Everyone from students to administrators and faculty get into the act, and all agree it's an epic time.

7. HOMECOMING

A week long and worthwhile event, Homecoming is the time to show off your UChicago spirit. From Maroon Monday to kick-off the week to our annual Block Party the morning before the game, UChicago's Homecoming is something you don't want to miss!

8. ENGAGE CHICAGO THROUGH SERVICE

Engage Chicago with your Housemates and other new students through service projects in local communities. Get your first taste of the fun, diverse, and rewarding community service opportunities available year-round through the University Community Service Center (UCSC). Each year, over 500 incoming first-year students and 35 community organizations participate. Past service projects have included community gardening, college prep activities with high school students, building a playground, and much more! Learn more about how to get involved in community service throughout the year from UCSC staff and volunteers.

9. MIDNIGHT BREAKFAST

Sponsored by the Center for Leadership and Involvement and the College, you can always find FREE food in Hutch Commons the night before finals week. Make sure to load up on pancakes, eggs, sausage, latkes and more! Come early at 11:30 PM to take part in activities in the marketplace and take your mind off of finals.

10. KUVIA

Kuviasungnerk/Kangeiko has been a UChicago tradition since January 1983, when former Dean of the College Donald Levine introduced the festival to the University community. It is a week filled with early morning exercise and other fun events. If you come every morning at 6 AM you get a free t-shirt!
