UF in China

TRADITIONAL MEDICINE & AGRICULTURE

Summer A: TBD

COLLEGE INFORMATION

College of Agricultural and Life Sciences

Department of Microbiology and Cell Science

LEARN about Chinese history, business culture, politics and current events

EXPERIENCE sites of historical and cultural importance

CONNECT with chinese students and professors

PROGRAM

Through this program you will gain exposure to Chinese culture, landscape, technology, science, and agriculture. Emphases are placed on visiting key cultural sites including the Great Wall, The Forbidden City, The Terra Cotta soldiers as well as specialized visits to learn about Chinese traditional medicine and Chinese agriculture/citriculture. The program seeks to build bridges between UF students with Chinese students, professors, and non-academic people (including learning some simple Chinese language for daily communications) in a once in a lifetime opportunity to visit a still largely unexplored (by US students) country and its people and culture.

LOCATION

You will explore various cities in China including Beijing, Xian, Chongqing, Wulan Mountains, Dazu Rock Caves, Jianxi City, and Ruijin City.

EXCURSIONS

This program is field and site-visit intensive including visits to (1) Chinese traditional medicine museum, herbariums, and universities, (2) Chinese agricultural sites including citriculture and other modern technological agricultural centers and Universities, and (3) Chinese cultural and scenic sites. You will enjoy trips to the Great Wall, Forbidden City, Wulan Mountains, Xian (Terra Cotta soldiers), and Dazu rock caves, amongst others.

HOUSING

All accommodations will be provided for the duration of the program.
