Experience a place too good to be anything but true...

Yes; there really are a thousand islands and that dressing comes from here, but there’s so much more to this stunningly beautiful freshwater paradise that you may not believe it until you experience it for yourself.

The 1000 Islands (pronounced “Thousand Islands”) has been a vacation destination for more than 100 years yet it still has an almost-mystical reputation. First-time visitors are awed to find that a place of real-life castles, public lighthouses and nearly 2,000 islands crammed into a mere 50 miles truly exists.

Visitors to this region settle into the waterfront hotels, weeklong cottages and riverside campsites before venturing onto the St. Lawrence River and eastern Lake Ontario. Tour boats have been meandering through the islands for decades, giving visitors an up-close look at this Gilded Age vacation retreat. Today, visitors marvel at the stark differences among the islands. Some go on for miles and are home to multiple year-round residents. Others have public beaches, private camps and are home to only eagles, osprey and other wildlife.

Private boaters find the waters of the 1000 Islands particularly accessible. Public docking and launches are strewn about vibrant downtowns and protected bays. Lighthouses, castles, theatres, golf courses, restaurants, campsites and more are all accessible by water.

The 1000 Islands offers a bounty of recreational activities from fishing and diving to hiking, biking and more. You’ll find a friendly, laid-back atmosphere that keeps visitors coming back year after year. Peruse the pages of this guide and learn about some of the many ways to enjoy your visit. Experience the 1000 Islands Region and find yourself inspired and renewed!

Crossing the border

Immigration regulations require each person to be inspected when crossing the border between the United States and Canada. Specific forms of identification are required for travel between the two countries. At press time, recommended forms of identification are: a passport, passport card, enhanced state driver's license approved for border travel or a NEXUS card for frequent cross-border travelers.

Regulations regarding exemptions and restrictions for belongings or merchandise brought across the international border exist. There may be certain variable restrictions for taking alcohol, tobacco products, certain foods, etc. across the border. Please be prepared to declare all belongings and show receipts for purchases when reporting to border agents for entry.

Immigration and customs requirements are subject to change without notice. We recommend that you obtain and review current literature published by Canadian and U.S. Border Protection Agencies prior to your visit.

American boaters entering Canadian waters – but not dropping anchor, docking or touching land – may report entry via the Telephone Reporting Centre. Calls may be made from mobile devices while on the water. The Reporting Centre can be reached at 1-888-226-7277.

SHOPPING THE WAY IT SHOULD BE!!

Alexandria Bay, New York

★ In the Heart of the 1000 Islands

Spend days exploring the possibilities of “The Bay.” With its many attractions, restaurants and lodging, you’ll find plenty to do, day and night.

Waterfront Alexandria Bay is your stop for fun in the 1000 Islands. This small-town village boasts all the requirements for having a grand time in the region: boat tours, waterfront hotels and restaurants, plenty of shopping and family-fun attractions to please everyone.

The Bay has hundreds of rooms available in a variety of styles. From full-service resorts and family-operated motels to quaint and stunning bed and breakfasts and cottages right on the water, spending the night is easy and convenient.

Alexandria Bay is top on many boaters’ lists. Municipal docks and private marinas are scattered throughout the community and provide ample access to the downtown stores, pubs, restaurants, nightclubs and places to stay.

Many visits to the 1000 Islands start in Alexandria Bay. Uncle Sam Boat Tours has a fleet of cruising vessels that annually tour thousands of visitors among the islands and past majestic Boldt and Singer castles as well as lighthouses and spectacular island mansions. Live tour guides narrate true stories of pirates, Prohibition bootleggers, secret societies and the Gilded Age rich-and-famous who first made the 1000 Islands a popular vacation destination.

To boat on our own, check with marinas and boat rental operators or hook up with a fishing guide who can cruise you to where the big ones bite!

The young and young-at-heart can indulge in mini-golf, go-karts and the Aqua Zoo, a family-owned aquarium celebrating its 20th season in 2015.

The Bay provides spectacular views of the St. Lawrence River from Scenic View Park and Casino Island, accessible by footbridge. The park has a public beach for those looking to take a dip.

Golf courses, tennis courts and eight state parks surround the community and will keep your visit active.

Alexandria Bay’s event schedule is always jam-packed. Friends and families are transformed into buccaneers and scalawags during Bill Johnston’s Pirate Days in August.

Polish the chrome on that Harley and join the Thousand Islands River Run Motorcycle Rally in June. Everyone always has fun at the annual Blues in the Bay Festival (Labor Day Weekend), Fourth of July Fireworks over Boldt Castle, Blessing of the Fleet (Memorial Day Weekend), Vintage Boat Show in July, and the all new Rockin' The Bay in August.

Brockville, Ontario

City of the

Brockville is considered the eastern gateway to the 1000 Islands and is one of the oldest and most charming cities in Ontario. Brockville attracts visitors from around the world looking to spend some time in the world-famous 1000 Islands and on the St. Lawrence River. The city's roots trace back to just after the American Revolution when displaced Loyalist refugees settled and founded the first incorporated village in Upper Canada.

Take a stroll or a bike ride along one of the most accessible waterfronts in the 1000 Islands to view North America's great inland shipping route where gigantic cargo vessels weave their way through the Brockville Islands. Explore the Brock Tail, Canada's First Railway Tunnel, enjoy afternoon tea on the veranda at Fulford Place Museum or fire the cannon at Fort Wellington National Historic Site. Do some shopping in one or all of our fabulous boutiques, antique shops or art galleries along King Street. Brockville offers several excellent dining options in the community including several choices in the downtown.

Brockville has earned its reputation as one of the world's best freshwater scuba diving destinations. Thanks to the crystal-clear waters that reveal well-preserved sunken ships -- from steel freighters to old schooners -- thousands of divers explore these shipwrecks in "Canada's Caribbean" every year.

THE AQUARIUM

The Aquarium is Brockville's newest tourism attraction and it will be opening in 2015! This interactive, learning and discovery center is located at the foot of the Tall Ships Landing at the base of Broad Street in the heart of Brockville. At the Aquarium, a variety of interactive adventures and experiences inspire critical thinking through storytelling and play while cultivating an appreciation of the unique history, culture and ecosystems of the 1000 Islands region. Spark your imagination with a visit to the Aquarium!

1000 ISLANDS & SEAWAY CRUISES

Of course, no visit to Brockville would be complete without a cruise of the world famous 1000 Islands. Departing from Block House Island in the city's historic downtown, 1000 Islands & Seaway Cruises operates a fleet of boats offering a close-up view of the Islands. Choose from a variety of traditional Sightseeing, Dining and Entertainment cruises or get your motor running aboard the islands' only high-speed passenger boat, the "WildCat," a safe, family fun, soft adventure for all ages.

BROCKVILLE ARTS CENTRE

A world class venue presenting world class entertainment. Treat yourself to a show in one of Canada's finest heritage theatres. The Brockville Arts Centre presents a variety of top quality live entertainment year round. The 710-seat theatre is located in historic downtown Brockville. This popular venue is well known for its friendly staff, big stage, comfortable seating, state-of-the-art sound system and exceptional acoustics. The lobby gallery showcases some of the regions finest artists and exhibitions.

Come and visit Brockville, but be warned: once you discover the city's charm and succumb to its hospitality, you will want to stay longer! Brockville and District Tourism is open year round to help you make your visit memorable.

Cape Vincent, New York

★ Where Lake and River Meet

Tibbetts Point Lighthouse stands tall at the very edge of Lake Ontario where the Great Lakes system funnels into the St. Lawrence River. The lighthouse is an extension of Cape Vincent – the community where lake and river meet – and a place not to be missed by those who want to get an up-close view of this majestic waterway.

Cape Vincent is a historic community that takes great pride in its French heritage. The colorful French Festival is held every year near Bastille Day, the second weekend in July. French pastries and bread are a must while watching Napoleon lead the parade. It was his brother Joseph who established residence in the community in the early 1800s. It's said that the French leader was on his way to Cape Vincent to join his brother before his defeat.

To learn more about the village's past, visit the Cape Vincent Historical Museum, set in an elegant stone building that served as a barracks for soldiers during the War of 1812. Nearby, in a restored gristmill, you can explore the underwater life of the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario at the NYS DEC Research Station and Aquarium.

Visitors with a variety of interests enjoy Cape Vincent all year round. Anglers compete in several area warm water and ice fishing derbies and visitors enjoy strolling through the Village Green for concerts, craft fairs, vintage auto shows and farmers markets throughout the spring, summer and fall. Scuba divers take advantage of the river access from Waterfront Park.

Horne's Ferry, the only international auto passenger ferry crossing the St. Lawrence River to Canada is located in Cape Vincent and departs from May to October.

Wine enthusiasts traveling the Thousand Islands-Seaway Wine Trail visit Cape Vincent and The Cape Winery for wines created from "northern" or "cold hardy" grapes that thrive in the region's climate.

The community is popular with active visitors who come for marathons and triathlons along – and in – the waters!

Clayton, New York

Welcome to Clayton...
"Where the tradition continues."

This quintessential river town has undergone a revival in recent years to offer new places to stay, dine and play while still preserving the nautical traditions that has made Clayton a favorite among 1000 Islands visitors for more than a century.

In 2014, Clayton welcomed the full-service downtown 1000 Islands Harbor Hotel with its more than 100 waterfront rooms and sweeping view of the islands and St. Lawrence River. Balance that with the traditional family-run motels and fire-pit and volleyball net cottage colonies along the water and you learn why more and more people are basing their 1000 Islands vacation in Clayton.

The community is harvesting the fruitful products of its inland properties and staking a claim in the craft beverage market with a new brewery and distilleries building on the foundation set by Coyote Moon Vineyards with its countryside tasting room and waterfront lounge.

For visitors seeking an authentic 1000 Islands vacation, look no further than Clayton and its museums that celebrate the river culture of the area. The Antique Boat Museum is home to North America's largest collection of wooden and classic boats, many of which still venture onto the river! Museum visitors can row a traditional St. Lawrence skiff, take an antique speedboat ride or learn skills including sailing, knot-tying and boat preservation.

The Thousand Islands Museum houses a special exhibit on the world-class muskellunge (muskie) that have been caught in the waters surrounding Clayton. Fishing is a long standing tradition in Clayton and guides are available to take visitors onto the water in pursuit of trophy fish. In fact, some say it's the local fishing community who came up with the famous Thousand Island Dressing that shares the region's name.

The Thousand Islands Arts Center showcases handmade textiles and offers exhibitors and workshops for seasonal and short-term visitors. Private galleries and the Clayton Opera House bring the arts to Clayton for all to enjoy.

Be sure to include Clayton in your 1000 Islands visit to get a truly authentic view of the region with modern conveniences sure to please anyone.

Are there really 1,000 Islands?

YES! We get this question all the time. There are actually more than 1,800 islands (1,864 to be exact) located in an approximately 50-mile archipelago that makes up the Thousand Islands region! To become an official part of the count, an island must meet two criteria: it must be above water 365 days a year and it must support a living tree.

No island is divided by the international border, meaning each is either wholly within the United States or Canada. That causes the international border to zig-zag across the water instead of forming a straight line between the two countries. In some places along the St. Lawrence River, islands that are very close are in different countries.

Each island has its own individuality with features such as stately granite cliffs, soft sand bays, tall dark pines and vibrant maple trees. It's a sightseer's paradise.

About that dressing...

Thousand Island Dressing must come from the 1000 Islands, right? It sure does but don't expect everyone here to agree upon where within the region it originated.

There are two prevailing beliefs about how the dressing came to be. Both origin stories take place on the New York side of the 1000 Islands. Alexandria Bay claims it was created in a pinch aboard a boat owned by George Boldt, builder of Boldt Castle. Clayton residents attribute the dressing to the wife of a local fishing guide.

Researchers have investigated the origin over the years and – in some cases – the two stories are intertwined. We'll let you decide which story to believe and invite you to ask the locals when you're here or perhaps bend your server's ear while enjoying Thousand Island Dressing with your dinner at one of the area's restaurants.

Legendary Fishing

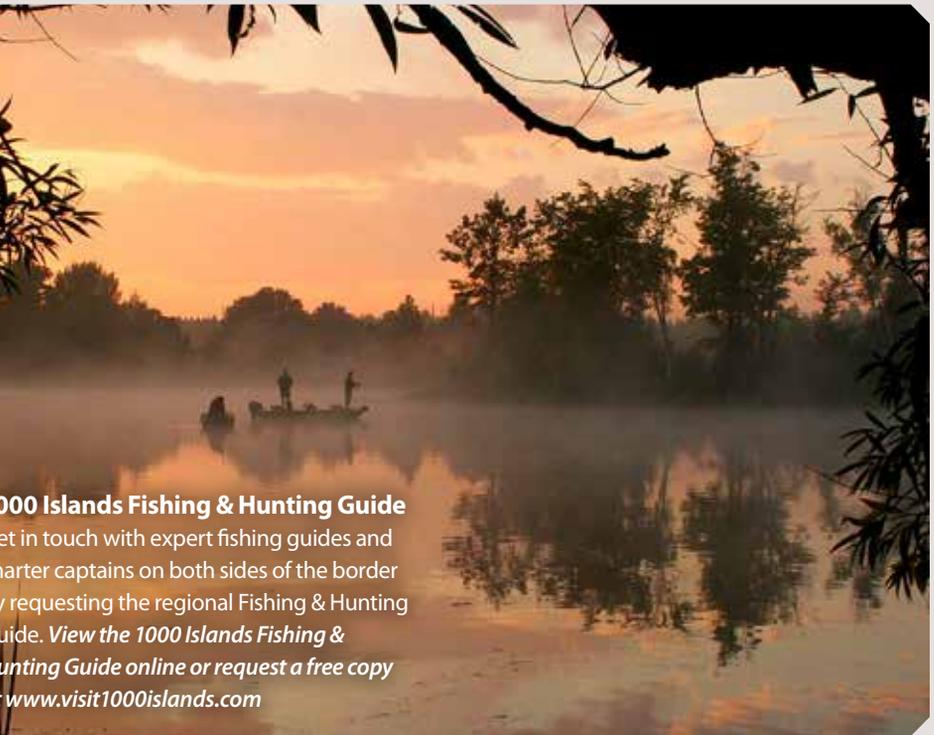

Generations have come to fish the waters of the great Lake Ontario and the mighty St. Lawrence River. Salmon and trout are favorites on the open water of Lake Ontario, which also includes bass, pike, walleye and panfish including tasty yellow perch. The St. Lawrence River provides a variety of fishing options such as deep-water trolling along island shorelines, jigging secret spots and casting in shallow bays.

The river and lake bays offer great winter action; the 1000 Islands is an ice fishing destination that draws anglers to drive from hours away to land feisty northern pike on tip-ups and perch and panfish by the bucketful.

Don't forget, late fall is prime musky season in the 1000 Islands, but we recommend going with an experienced guide when pursuing these cunning monsters.

The Shore Dinner

Among the charter captains and fishing guides, preparing the shore dinner is a tradition that has been handed down through the generations.

While your guide filets your day's catch, you'll be enjoying a bacon or fatback pork and tomato sandwich. The main course follows with a crisp garden salad with Thousand Islands dressing, salt potatoes and – of course – the fresh filets skillfully prepared before your eyes. Dessert and coffee round out the feast.

So go ahead and throw your diet overboard for just this once and enjoy some local fare. The Shore Dinner is a hardy meal that is truly a 1000 Islands tradition.

★ The heart of the Golden Crescent

This relaxed, picturesque harbor community on the eastern shore of Lake Ontario is the jumping-off point for open-water adventure in the 1000 Islands and St. Lawrence Seaway Region. Henderson Harbor is the heart of the “Golden Crescent,” a deep-water harbor renowned for its lofty vistas, sportfishing and vacation-retreat appeal.

Located in the town of Henderson, Henderson Harbor keeps watch over the great Lake Ontario, the last of the world’s greatest freshwater reservoirs. The community provides some of the finest open-water views in New York.

The secrets of Lake Ontario sportfishing lie beneath the surface and within Henderson Harbor, where local families tell tales of their ancestors serving as guides who rowed clients to their favorite spots to catch salmon, trout, bass, pike and perch. Their tales include past presidents and famous dignitaries. Today, charter captains take groups far onto Lake Ontario to fish for salmon, trout, walleye and bass.

Henderson Harbor is dotted with public launches and marinas that allow sailors, power boaters and pleasure vessels to enjoy their time on the water.

Henderson is a true treat for vacationers looking to relax and escape the hustle and bustle of everyday life. Waterfront cottages can be rented by the week. Small locally owned motels offer personal service. Campsites are strewn throughout and give vacationers a chance to slow down and enjoy the cool breezes and breath-taking sunsets over Lake Ontario. RVs, pop-up campers and tents are welcome among the area’s three state parks and three privately operated campsites.

Family reunions and waterside weddings are popular in Henderson Harbor. Waterfront restaurants provide satisfying dishes and perfect views over the water.

Henderson Harbor is on the Great Lakes Seaway Trail, a 518-mile American Byway that follows Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River. Henderson is a particularly popular spot with bicyclists and motorcycle riders who stop to take in the vista views. Henderson is a short drive from Route 81, Sackets Harbor and Watertown. The 1000 Islands and Canada are within 30 miles.

Prescott, Ontario

The historic Fort Town
on the River

Nestled between the major centres of Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto and Syracuse, Prescott is truly an historic gem waiting to be experienced.

Prescott is home to Fort Wellington National Historic Site of Canada. Built during the War of 1812, the Fort preserves original buildings and grounds from the 1830s. Staff dressed in period costumes will acquaint you with the daily life of a Royal Canadian Rifle Regiment soldier and his family. Visitors can observe musket fire demonstrations and participate in the cannon fire program!

The intriguing history continues at the Battle of the Windmill National Historic Site of Canada, site of an 1838 battle fought in the wake of the Upper Canada Rebellion. The grist windmill was later converted to a 60-foot stone lighthouse and visitors are led by a guide to the top, just below the lantern room, for views of the St. Lawrence River.

While you're downtown, walk the shady tree-lined streets where time has paused, and indulge in the very best of early-1800s architecture and the town's United Empire Loyalist history.

Stroll, run or bike along the pleasant Heritage River Trail and scenic waterfront of the sparkling St. Lawrence River. Enjoy a round of golf at the Prescott Golf Course, an 18-hole course overlooking the river

You can also fish, picnic, relax and linger as you listen to the music at the Kinsmen amphitheatre. During July and August, the St. Lawrence Shakespeare Festival performs under the stars, and musical concerts are presented every Sunday evening. Featured performances for 2015 are "Romeo & Juliet" and "The Comedy of Errors."

If you're coming by water, glide into the beautifully maintained Sandra S. Lawn Harbour, a premier boating facility with friendly and courteous staff on hand to greet you. Below the surface, you can discover the secrets of the majestic St. Lawrence River. Dive into the incredibly clear water to touch history. The shipwrecks of the Rothsay and Conestoga rest just offshore in a freshwater museum.

Stay in one of our charming inns or waterfront accommodations right in Prescott or a short distance away.

Watertown, New York

With its proximity to the Black River, St. Lawrence River, Lake Ontario and the Tug Hill Plateau, the city of Watertown is a convenient staging site for year-round outdoor adventure.

The city of Watertown is the burgeoning urban center of Northern New York, with the modern conveniences of national chain stores, restaurants and hotels co-existing with a healthy community of independent shopping, locally owned restaurants and recreational services that provide local flair and a friendly atmosphere.

One of Watertown's greatest treasures - the Black River - is just steps from the shops and restaurants of downtown's Public Square. Seven miles of whitewater featuring 14 sets of class III and IV rapids offer thrilling and reliable adventures from spring through fall. The river has several great play spots for kayakers and has hosted national whitewater competitions. Every year, thousands of visitors enjoy guided whitewater rafting trips with professional outfitters leaving from downtown Watertown. Easily accessible trails offer visitors the chance to bike, hike or fish along the shoreline. Even better, you don't have to leave the city limits to find some of the best outdoor experiences in New York.

The city's beautiful Olmsted-designed Thompson Park overlooks downtown, the Black River Valley and eastern Lake Ontario. Nestled in the park, you'll find golfing, swimming, tennis, playgrounds and the New York State Zoo, the only zoo dedicated to the bears, eagles and other animals of New York State. The park's vast picnic areas and stone pavilions can be reserved for private functions through the city Parks and Recreation Department.

The park is said to be home to the Thompson Park Vortex, an unexplained phenomenon that supposedly teleports visitors - unharmed - to another location within the park without explanation. The location is said to move within the park and visitors enjoy searching for it.

Winter in and around the Watertown area brings snowboarding, downhill skiing, and tubing to the Dry Hill Ski Area, snowshoeing and Nordic skiing to Thompson Park and snowmobiling across the nearby Tug Hill - which gets nearly 300 inches of snowfall annually!

Watertown is one of New York's fastest growing cities. Many newly constructed national retail stores and restaurants have sprung-up in the past few years. With its abundance of lodging options, Watertown is quickly becoming a popular shopping destination.

Watertown is proud to have as its neighbor, Fort Drum, which is home to the Army's 10th Mountain Division. Thousands of active duty soldiers and their families are stationed at Fort Drum and many find this region an ideal place to settle down and live.

Drum County, New York

★ The front line in making Fort Drum part of the community

Watertown and Northern New York are proud to have Fort Drum and its 10th Mountain Division as their neighbor. Fort Drum's soldiers, families and civilian support staff total approximately 30,000 people. With so much going on in their back yard, the small-town communities around the fort have flourished with hotels, bed-and-breakfasts, motor speedways, agricultural attractions and parks that can be enjoyed by everyone.

Fort Drum has been used as a military training ground since 1908. The communities that surround it have long been home to sprawling rural farms. While that's still much the case, communities such as LeRay, Carthage and Great Bend have seen chain and private hotels – as well as B&Bs – emerge. The nearby Indian River Lakes are home to scores of waterside cottages that can be rented by the week for a cozy, quiet fishing or boating retreat.

The wide range of accommodations compliments a growing number of attractions that includes an alpaca farm, a petting ranch and wineries. The Thousand Islands-Seaway Wine Trail passes through small towns Philadelphia and Theresa before swinging along the St. Lawrence River.
