Director's Letter

Greetings City of Roswell,

I can't help but be thankful we are closing out 2020, and looking around the corner at 2021 with hope, optimism and tempered excitement about what a new year can bring to our community. I am eternally grateful to our team at the Department of Recreation, Parks, Historic and Cultural Affairs for their resiliency over the past year. Like so many of our local businesses, we have completely overhauled many of the ways we provide services to our community in response to COVID-19. We have created new online programming, implemented several new safety measures throughout our facilities and created a safe way for our community to access the programs and facilities we have all grown to love in the City of Roswell. It is equally important to thank our Mayor, Council and City Administration for their ongoing support and trust as we have navigated these uncharted waters over the past year.

As we look ahead to 2021, I am excited to announce an overhaul of our online registration system. We have remodeled the landing page and search features in the system in order to assist our community in quickly filtering and navigating through our registration system. With over 900 programs offered to the community annually, we hope that you will find that the system upgrades make your registration process faster, easier and quicker to navigate. As you jump into the registration system look for features such as "share this program" where you can copy and email a link to friends and family for sign-up coordination for your favorite program! You may also notice that we have begun to decrease the amount of information contained in the pages of our program brochure. The new generation of the brochure will contain program highlights of what to expect for the coming season. However, the details including complete program descriptions, locations, times and dates can be found on our online registration system. We are making this change to create space for new information. Contained in the pages of this brochure you will also find some new information. Program highlights, staff highlights, class instructor biographies and volunteer appreciation will be spread throughout the pages of our seasonal brochures as a way to highlight everything we have to offer the community and the people who make it happen every day.

Once again, thank you for your support and I look forward to serving you with our team at the City of Roswell in 2021 and beyond!

Culinary

Chef Spotlight

Chef Darwin Felion began working for the City of Roswell in 2008 in the kitchen of East Roswell Recreation Center. His enthusiastic nature always filled his classes with giggles, smiles, and laughs of children waiting to learn what they were going to be making next.

He first came to us from an education background, so he brought with him the invaluable experience of teaching. Darwin's grandmother was a trained chef and restaurateur in South Dakota, where he grew up. His background and experience are a perfect combination, shaping our culinary programs into what they are today.

Chef Darwin carefully tailors his cooking classes to all developmental age groups. When explaining how differently a child's perspective of cooking is compared to an adult, Darwin said, "When you show them an egg, they ask where the chicken is. When you're making a cake, they try to sneak frosting." While he carefully designs his classes around his students, Chef Darwin never takes cooking too seriously. He embraces the carefree and curious dispositions of his students, creating an environment where fun and creativity are prioritized.

Long-standing cornerstones of historic Roswell, ‘A Southern Trilogy’: Roswell’s Historic House Museums consists of Barrington Hall, Bulloch Hall, and Smith Plantation. These houses provide a sense of community “rootedness” and endurance, as well as an opening for tourism and connection. They represent our past but are also a place of reflection, dialogue, and decision as we move forward. In collaboration with the efforts of the Roswell Convention and Visitors Bureau, our historic assets draw tourism from almost all fifty states and several countries around the world. The staff and volunteers of Roswell’s historic sites are proud to serve the community and hope to see you soon.

Barrington Hall (ca. 1842)

535 Barrington Drive

Learn what started it all through the King family, instrumental in establishing a successful textile mill along Vickery Creek and the development of Roswell. Also home to the oldest antebellum garden in the Atlanta-metro area open to the public, Barrington Hall highlights the significance of historic preservation and landscape to the Roswell community.

Bulloch Hall (ca. 1839)

180 Bulloch Avenue

Discover a Presidential link in one of Roswell’s founding families. Built for the James Stephens Bulloch family, this antebellum home on the Georgia frontier shaped the life of Mittie Bulloch, mother to Theodore Roosevelt, 26th President of the United States.

Smith Plantation (ca. 1845)

935 Alpharetta Street

All that remains of an original 300 acre farm, the Smith Plantation story reveals a snapshot of Roswell history through the years. Discover a walk through time as you enjoy a tour of the house and property, learning of antebellum Roswell to the 1950s, understanding how each generation left its mark.

Historic House Museums

Mimosa Hall & Gardens Update

127 Bulloch Avenue

A beautiful Greek Revival house surrounded by gardens, Mimosa Hall is an inspiring monument of survival. The home's first owners, the Dunwoody family, named it "Phoenix Hall" when its walls were rebuilt in 1844 after a devastating fire. It was later the home of A.J. Hansell, who moved to Roswell after the Civil War to rebuild the burned Roswell Mill. The Hansell family named the house Mimosa Hall after the lovely trees on the property. In the early twentieth century, Mimosa Hall was the final home of renowned architect Neel Reid, who integrated the antebellum mimosa trees and other historic plants into his grand landscaping masterpiece of the gardens surrounding the house. The property was acquired by the City of Roswell in 2017 and is currently under development for the community. The grounds are available for rental and visitation through appointment only. For more information, please call 770-641-3954 or email us at rrpd@roswellgov.com.

Staff are hard at work to address further planning and site development. Efforts have been underway to address key safety issues on the grounds as well as making progress towards opening the house for the public. The first phase of accomplishing a Certificate of Occupancy was funded and completed in September 2020. Much needed refurbishment of the Neel Reid era reflection pond was completed by working with a brick mason that specializes in period methods and reproductions.

Volunteer Spotlight: Debbie Vann

If you've ever admired the gardens and plants of Barrington Hall or Smith Plantation, you are enjoying the efforts of several volunteers that work hard to showcase our historic homes in the best light. Debbie Vann is one such volunteer that has been a consistent pillar of loyalty to the homes since 2004. She also happens to be a current officer of the Roswell Garden Club and was first introduced to Smith Plantation through a garden club project when she first moved to the area. She quickly became invested and recognized the importance of landscape to historic properties and what they can mean to people and a community.

When asked why she has stayed involved, Debbie replies, "The grounds at the homes are very important and I know visitors from all over enjoy them. They are an important draw for Roswell's tourist industry and they provide education about how our community was formed and why it survived."

Have you considered volunteering with us? The volunteer program offers an opportunity to meet people from all over the world and to connect with like-minded individuals. The staff of Roswell's "A Southern Trilogy" are grateful to all our volunteers and it is a common response that their lives are enriched in return.

If you are interested in learning how to be a tour docent or helping with our gardens, please email lwesterman@roswellgov.com.

Community Connections

Did you know that there are 3 non-profit organizations whose mission it is to help support the preservation and activities of Barrington Hall, Bulloch Hall, and Mimosa Hall & Gardens? Over the years, these collective groups have donated hours of time, energy, expertise, and thousands of dollars in financial resources and capital projects.

The Friends of Barrington Hall and the Friends of Bulloch Hall each operate a gift shop at both locations. You'll find books, toys, homewares, goods, and gifts from local artists for every occasion. All revenue proceeds go to support the Friends groups and ultimately to benefit Roswell's historic homes. We encourage you to learn more about these organizations by visiting the websites below. Discover how you can become a member, get involved, and support a mission focused on Roswell history and heritage.

Creative Arts www.RoswellGov.com/CreativeArts

The City of Roswell is unique in operating recreational Creative Arts facilities. Our Visual Arts Center and Art Center West are dedicated to providing immersive artistic and creative experiences. Our Art Centers believe everyone is an artist. We strive to offer programming in a variety of disciplines for all levels, age groups, abilities and interests.

Art Center West

1355 Woodstock Rd., Roswell, GA 30075

Surrounded by acres of beautiful parkland sits a white house on a hill that has become a playground for the artistic soul. Art Center West, a community ceramic arts studio, offers a variety of adult and youth classes for anyone wanting to add creativity and imagination into their lives. If you are new to clay or a seasoned expert looking for an inspirational location to continue your learning experience, ACW has a class or workshop waiting for you.

Handbuilding classes are offered for students from beginner to advanced learners. Beginning courses guide students through basic forming techniques including pinch, coil and slab construction, as well as a variety of surface and finishing options. More advanced courses, such as figurative sculpture and mixed media, explore both human and animal forms.

Wheel throwing classes are offered for the beginner to advanced learner. Novice students learn to wedge clay and use the potter's wheel to center and throw basic forms such as mugs, bowls and vases. Advanced students learn more complicated forms and refine their technical skills on the wheel while exploring more surface design options.

Unique firing classes enable participants to experiment with alternative techniques, including raku, saggar, soda, and wood firings.

Youth wheel classes are available to kids as young as 8 years old and include classes that combine wheel throwing and handbuilding or wheel throwing and recreational tree climbing.

Clay classes are offered weekdays, evenings, and Saturdays. Additionally, open studio hours allow adult students to use the studio to practice their skills in a friendly and peer-supported environment.

Throughout the year, ACW also hosts several workshops conducted by visiting artists. These workshops help expand the knowledge and skill-set students have acquired in and out of the class and build their personal connections within the ceramic art world.

Art Center West is so much more than classes and workshops! It is a community, a family, a collective of ceramic artists. Walking into the studio today, you would witness an array of artwork being created. In one room, students create figures in numerous poses, while a narrative clay class works to combine the written word with their clay pieces. In another room, potters are throwing bowls, jars, plates and vases on potter's wheels. And upstairs, students are learning how to mix and experiment with glazes. Art Center West is a welcoming space that encourages evolving creativity.

Please feel free to stop in for a tour if you are interested in learning more about ACW, looking to sign up for a class, or just wanting to see the fun and creative magic at work. More information is available, visit www.RoswellClayCollective.com and www.RoswellGov.com/CreativeArts.

The Forge at Art Center West

Tucked just behind Art Center West in Leita Thompson Park, this specialized facility offers blacksmithing, knife making, and welding classes for participants ages 16 and older. The Forge is a relatively new addition to our programming and is quickly growing in popularity.

Your experience in our forging classes will be an instructional journey through tools and equipment, material selection, body mechanics, design considerations, forging techniques, basic heat treating principles and finishing methods. You will experience a very active class with an emphasis on hands-on learning with hammer, heat, and iron.

Our Blacksmithing programs are intensive classes that serve as introductions to forging arts and are focused on project-based learning, including ornamental and functional iron works.

Bladesmithing participants will gain crucial forge and finish experiences and will leave the course with a finished, heat treated knife. The foundational courses are designed to be built upon during future exploration and coursework, including adding knife handles, advanced finishing and heat treating, and forging Damascus blades.

Welding courses offer an excellent way for beginners to learn how to join pieces of metal through different types of welding. This course will offer an overview of MIG, Stick, Oxyacetylene, and TIG processes while emphasizing sound welds with sufficient penetration. These “crash courses” have been designed to give participants the knowledge and confidence needed to start working safely with these fun metal joining processes.

Whether at the anvil or fabrication table, our knowledgeable, motivated, and inspirational instructors use a combination of lecture and hands-on training in our outdoor facility. No need to be intimidated if you have never worked with metal before – our staff welcomes all participants, no matter your level of experience. More information available, visit www.RoswellGov.com/RoswellArtWorkshops.

Private workshops are available for both clay and metal classes. Please contact AJ Argentina at aargentina@roswellgov.com if you have specific questions about any of the programs at ACW or the Forge.

Craig Ford

Craig Ford studied art at Young Harris College before transferring to the University of Georgia in Athens, where he majored in graphic design and illustration. He later worked as a designer/illustrator and art director for several agencies before starting his own graphic design business "Design by Ford" in 1999. It wasn't until 2005 that Ford returned to painting. Additionally, he teaches design and fine art classes at Young Harris College and art classes at the Roswell Visual Arts Center. His work has been regularly exhibited at the Atlanta Artist Center, the Marietta/Cobb Museum of Art and he was selected as one of Atlanta's emerging artists by Anne Irwin Fine Art.

He sees himself as a visual storyteller, taking ordinary objects and putting them into different contexts and discovering completely different meanings and ideas in their combinations. Nostalgic icons or everyday items find a place in his vividly-colored compositions. Craig holds memberships with the Atlanta Artists Center, Roswell Fine Art Alliance, and the Alpha Arts Guild. Craig currently teaches Sketchbook Drawing and Painting, Acrylic and Oil painting and Plein Air Art classes.

June Oros

June Oros began her teaching career in art during the 1980s. She is currently teaching oils, acrylics, pastels, watercolor, collage and drawing in a multitude of media styles at Roswell Visual Art Center.

"I have always been passionate about art and respected the work of other artists. My work is always evolving, whether it is a drawing, painting, creating a collage or experimenting with mixed media. I love to switch from one media or technique to another as a means of broadening my repertoire and range of skills for the excitement of where it takes me."

While working as a portrait artist years ago, Oros was hired as a courtroom artist for an NBC affiliate in Tampa, Florida. Awards include Best of Show in the professional division at the Strawberry Festival, The Marge Long Award, and The Paul Dufmueller Award among others. After receiving a B.A. from the University of South Florida, Oros continued to take workshops and classes to expand her skills. June currently teaches Oil and Acrylic Painting, Inspired Acrylics, Drawing and Painting Studio, and Figure Workshops at the Visual Arts Center.

Mary Booth Cabot

Mary Booth Cabot's art is a combination of talent, creativity, and love of both beauty and life. She has been, for over 38 years, known for her botanical paintings and lithographs. Since then, she has added native birds to her repertoire.

It all started in a private garden tended by her and her grandmother who supplied the sanctuary at the church they attended with bouquets of flowers each Sunday morning. Mary learned much in that garden and prides herself in carrying the fourth generation of family gardeners. Most of Mary's inspiration comes from a lovely and private garden that she tends regularly. Mary currently teaches watercolor and drawing classes and workshops.

Gary Weiss

Gary Weiss was born and raised in Decatur, Georgia at a place and time when a boy and his dog felt comfortable roaming and exploring the acres of woods and streams backing up to his neighborhood. Gary has raised his two sons and taught classes at Portfolio Center in Atlanta, where he has served the last 13 years as Illustration Department Chair. During this time, Gary found it a natural transition to combine his two lifetime passions of art and the outdoors through plein-air and landscape painting. Gary continues to paint, draw, and teach in the Atlanta art community and his paintings are shown in galleries in Georgia and North Carolina. Gary currently teaches a variety of Figure Study classes and workshops.

Evelyn Breit

Whenever possible Evelyn draws and paints from life because it enhances spontaneity, creative expression, and visual acuity. In addition to her primary medium of pastel she works with graphite, charcoal, and color pencil. She also paints in oil and watercolor and experiments with printmaking and mixed-media techniques. She is inspired by classical and contemporary figurative art and other subjects such as landscape, still life and abstraction. Her paintings have received numerous awards in national and international exhibitions. She is a Member of Excellence and a past president of the Southeastern Pastel Society and Atlanta Artists Center, where she is a weekly life drawing facilitator since 2012.
