Star of the North

A Novel

D. B. John

Publicist: Sarah Breivogel | 212-572-2722 | sbreivogel@penguinrandomhouse.com

SUMMARY

A propulsive and ambitious thriller about a woman trying to rescue her twin sister from captivity in North Korea, and the North Korean citizens with whom she forms an unlikely alliance.

Twenty-two years ago, Jenna's twin sister vanished from a South Korean beach. For the next two decades, the world believed she'd drowned, and her family struggled to move on. But when South Korean intelligence uncovers a North Korean operation to kidnap foreign citizens by submarine, Jenna realizes the truth: the twin she'd given up for dead never drowned, and the only way she'll see her again is if she can rescue her from North Korea. To save her sister, Jenna must abandon her mundane life for recruitment into the CIA.

Across the world in Pyongyang, Colonel Cho has been tasked with negotiating with the United States for foreign aid. But as he prepares for his journey, Cho makes a discovery about his own past, one that would brand him and his family traitors if it ever came to light. As the secret police close in, Cho conceives a dangerous plan for escape—a plan that can only succeed if he can win the trust of a CIA operative desperate to find her lost sister.

The Quest to Create an Artificial Heart

Mimi Swartz

Publicist: Liz Wetzel | 212-572-6049 | Iwetzel@penguinrandomhouse.com

SUMMARY

Two-time National Magazine Award winner Mimi Swartz takes readers behind the scenes at the Texas Heart Institute as she follows pioneering heart surgeon O. H. "Bud" Frazier and his partner, Dr. Billy Cohn, in Frazier's lifelong effort to develop and perfect a total artificial heart.

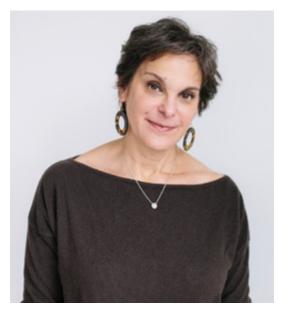

As director of cardiovascular surgery at the Texas Heart Institute, and arguably the foremost heart surgeon in the world, Bud Frazier's lifelong mission, since his stint in the Vietnam War, has been to save lives by creating a total artificial heart for the 50,000 people each year whose hearts are failing.

Chronicling the evolution of cardiac medicine, from pioneering efforts in open-heart surgery and bypass operations under Michael DeBakey and Denton Cooley to Bud Frazier's introduction of the left ventricle assist device (or LVAD), Swartz follows Frazier and his partner, Billy Cohn, as they test the limits of medical technology. In a gripping narrative that takes readers from the operating theaters of the famed Texas Heart Institute to the research labs, from the Institute's basement, where scores of calves are implanted with the artificial heart designs to test how they work, to the team's relentless quest for funding, Swartz has created an unputdownable narrative that weaves together science, research, medicine, and the relentless obsession of a surgeon determined to extend patients' lives.

SUMMARY

A look inside the terrifying cyber battle being waged by the United States, Russia, North Korea, and China that could bring us to the brink of global war.

The Perfect Weapon is the riveting story of how, in less than a decade, cyber warfare displaced terrorism and nuclear attacks as the greatest threat to American national security. Cheap to acquire, difficult to defend against, and designed to shield users' identities so as to complicate retaliation, these weapons are capable of an unprecedented range of offensive tactics—they can take us just short of war, allowing for everything from disruption to theft to widespread damage of essential infrastructure systems. Reported and written with unprecedented access, The Perfect Weapon takes readers inside war rooms and boardrooms, into the secret cyber dens of American and Chinese military, and behind Russia's hacking of the 2016 election, to give the deepbackground story of this increasingly pitched battle between nations.

SUMMARY

An unforgettable portrait of a woman finding her way in New York, at the turn of the 21st century.

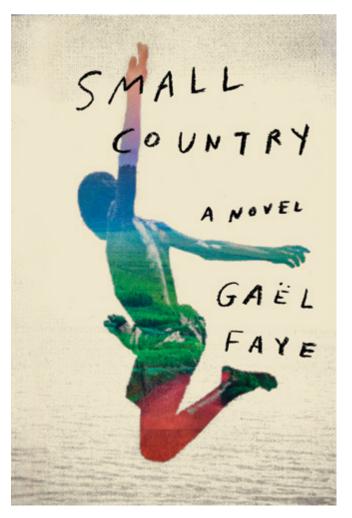

Lee is at a tender and dangerous breaking point: she's not a kid anymore but still acting like one. She wants to be an artist, but her rent-paying SoHo restaurant job has taken over and the late nights at strip clubs and after-hours joints have gone from joyful and crazy to just plain crazy.

Things slide downhill when she accepts money from her older boyfriend, Yves, something she swore she'd never do—until she was being evicted. Meanwhile, Kelly—a new bartender with homemade tattoos and a murky past—shows up on the scene.

Lee can be both narcissistic and earnest as she leads us through dark, glittering underworlds of New York City, and Libaire's voice, like her heroine, is tough, elegant, and full of dreams.

SUMMARY

The first novel to be published by SJP for Hogarth, A Place for Us is a deeply moving and resonant story for our times: a masterful novel of love, identity, and belonging.

Fatima Farheen Mirza's debut novel is a portrait of a family caught between two cultures, a story of faith, tradition, identity, and belonging that eloquently examines what it means to be both American and Muslim. The novel gathers together the lives of an Indian Muslim family in California on the eve of the eldest daughter's wedding. As Hadia's marriage—one of love, not tradition—gathers the family back together, her parents, Rafiq and Layla, must come to terms with the choices that their two daughters, and their estranged son, Amar, have made

In a narrative that spans decades and views family life through the eyes of each member, A Place for Us charts the crucial moments in the family's past, from the bonds that bring them together to the differences that pull them apart.

The Death of Truth

Michiko Kakutani

Publicist: Dyana Messina | 212-572-2098 | dmessina@penguinrandomhouse.com

A stirring and incisive manifesto on America's slide away from truth and reason.

Over the last three decades, Michiko Kakutani has been thinking and writing about the demise of objective truth in popular culture, academia, and contemporary politics. In The Death of Truth, she connects the dots to reveal the slow march of untruth up to our present moment, when red-state and blue-state America have little common ground, proven science is once more up for debate, and all opinions are held to be equally valid (and, more often than not, rudely declared online). The wisdom of the crowd has diminished the power of research and expertise, and we are each left clinging to the "facts" that best confirm our biases.

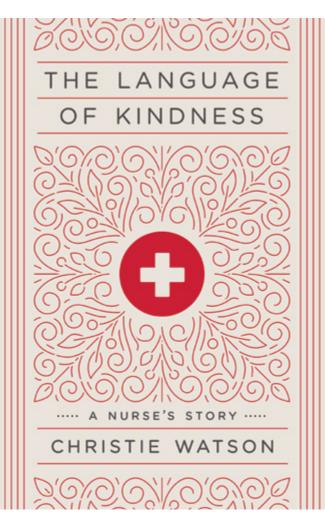

With wit, erudition, and remarkable insight, Kakutani offers a provocative diagnosis of our current condition and presents a path forward for our truth-challenged times.

The Language of Kindness

A Nurse's Story

Christie Watson

Publicist: Sarah Grimm | 212-782-8637 sgrimm@penguinrandomhouse.com

SUMMARY

A moving, lyrical, beautifully written portrait of a nurse and the lives she has touched.

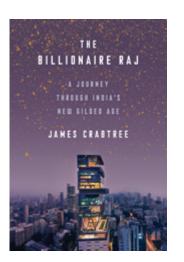

Christie Watson spent 20 years as a nurse, and in this intimate and remarkably powerful book, she opens the hospital doors and takes us to meet her most unforgettable patients.

In the neonatal unit, premature babies fight for their lives, such as tiny Emmanuel, wrapped up in a sandwich bag. On the cancer wards, the nurses administer chemotherapy and, long after the medicine stops working, something more important—which Watson learns to recognize when her own father is dying of cancer. The emergency room is as overcrowded as ever, with waves of alcohol- and drug-addicted patients, as well as patients like Betty, a widow suffering chest pain, frail and alone.

Through the smallest of actions, nursing provides vital care and kindness. All of us will experience illness in our lifetime and will depend on the support and dignity that nurses offer, yet the people who form the vanguard of our health care remain unsung. In this age of fear, hate, and division, Christie Watson has written a book that reminds us of all that we share, and of the urgency of compassion.

AUTHOR BIO

CHRISTIE WATSON was a registered nurse for 20 years before writing full-time. Her first novel, Tiny Sunbirds Far Away, won the Costa First Novel Award and her second novel, Where Women Are Kings, was also published to international critical acclaim. #### SUMMARY

The bestselling author of The Martian returns with an irresistible new near-future thriller—a heist story set on the moon.

Jazz Bashara is a criminal.

Well, sort of. Life on Artemis, the first and only city on the moon, is tough if you're not a rich tourist or an eccentric billionaire, so smuggling in the occasional harmless bit of contraband barely counts, right? Not when you've got debts to pay and your job as a porter barely covers the rent.

Everything changes when Jazz sees the chance to commit the perfect crime, with a reward too lucrative to turn down. But pulling off the impossible is just the start of her problems, as she learns that she's stepped square into a conspiracy for control of Artemis itself—and that now, her only chance at survival lies in a gambit even riskier than the first.

AUTHOR BIO

ANDY WEIR built a career as a software engineer until the success of his first published novel, The Martian, allowed him to live out his dream of writing-full time. #### SUMMARY

The story of the rise and reign of O-Six, the celebrated Yellowstone wolf, and the people who loved or feared her.

Once abundant in North America, wolves were hunted to near extinction in the lower 48 states by the 1920s. But in recent decades, conservationists have brought these majestic creatures back to the Rockies, igniting a battle over the very soul of the West.

Nate Blakeslee tells the gripping story of one of these wolves, O-Six, an uncommonly powerful alpha female named for the year of her birth. O-Six is a kind and merciful leader, a fiercely intelligent fighter, and a doting mother.

But as she raises and protects her pack, O-Six is challenged on all fronts: by hunters competing with wolves for the elk they both prize; by cattle ranchers with sway over politicians; and by other Yellowstone wolves vying for control of the Lamar Valley.

These forces collide in American Wolf, a multigenerational saga of hardship and triumph—and of the ongoing cultural clash in the West.

My Life in Crazy Times

John Perry Barlow with Robert Greenfield

Publicist: Ellen Folan | 212-782-8944 efolan@penguinrandomhouse.com

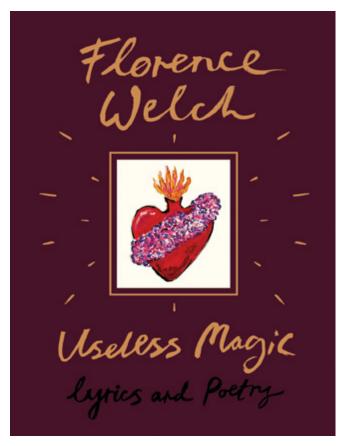

SUMMARY

The Grateful Dead are just part of John Perry Barlow's life—from Wyoming rancher to early Internet guru.

Mother American Night is the wild, funny, heartbreaking, and often unbelievable (yet always completely true) story of an American icon. John Perry Barlow hung out in Andy Warhol's Factory, went on a date with the Dalai Lama's sister, and accidentally shot Bob Weir in the face on his own wedding day. Despite being a freely self-confessed acidhead, Barlow served as Dick Cheney's campaign manager during his first run for Congress. And after befriending an early group of computer hackers, he became a renowned Internet guru who cofounded the Electronic Frontier Foundation. Blessed with an incredible sense of humor, Barlow is a born storyteller in the tradition of Mark Twain and Will Rogers, and his résumé only hints at the richness of a life lived on the edge.

SUMMARY

From actress Krysten Ritter, a gripping suspense novel about a woman forced to confront her past.

It's been 10 years since Abby Williams left home. But when a case takes her back to Barrens, Indiana, the new life she painstakingly created begins to crack. Tasked with investigating Optimal Plastics, the town's economic heart, Abby finds strange connections to Barrens's biggest scandal from her youth, involving the popular Kaycee Mitchell—just before Kaycee disappeared.

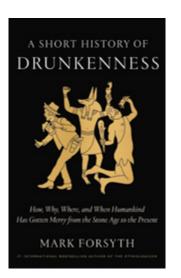

Abby knows the key to solving any case lies in the weak spots, the unanswered questions. But she soon unearths an even more disturbing secret—a "game" that will threaten the reputations, and lives, of the community and risk exposing a darkness that may consume her.

With tantalizing twists, slow-burning suspense, and a remote rural town of just five claustrophobic square miles, Bonfire explores whether you can ever really outrun your past.

The Great Revolt

Inside the Populist Coalition Reshaping American Politics

Salena Zito and Brad Todd

Publicist: Megan Perritt | 212-572-2543 mperritt@penguinrandomhouse.com

SUMMARY

The Great Revolt asks: was Trump's election a fluke or a fundamental shift that will have repercussions for years?

Zito and Todd traveled on over 27,000 miles of country roads to interview more than 300 Trump voters in 10 swing counties. What they have discovered is that these voters were hiding in plain sight—ignored by both parties, the media, and the political experts all at once, ready to unite into the movement that spawned the greatest upset in recent electoral history.

The Great Revolt delves into the minds and hearts of the voters who make up this coalition. What emerges is a group of citizens who cannot be described as "angry," "male," "rural," or the often-used "racist." They span job descriptions, income brackets, education levels, and party allegiances. What unites them is their desire to be part of a movement larger than themselves that puts pragmatism before ideology, localism before globalism, and demands the respect it deserves from Washington.

BRAD TODD, a sixthgeneration native of rural East Tennessee, is a founding partner at OnMessage media firm. ## SUMMARY

Soon to be a major motion picture starring Forest Whitaker and produced by Robbie Brenner (Dallas Buyers Club), a harrowing true story of the modern KKK and a surprising act of grace in the Deep South.

In 1996, the town of Laurens, South Carolina, entered the international spotlight when a white supremacist named Michael Burden opened a museum celebrating the Ku Klux Klan on the town square. Journalists, protestors, and hate-group supporters flooded Laurens, dredging up the community's long history of racial violence.

The events of that year are the subject of an upcoming film starring Forest Whitaker, Tom Wilkinson, and Usher Raymond. Shortly after his museum opened, Michael Burden abruptly left the Klan. Broke and homeless, he was taken in by Reverend David Kennedy, an African American preacher and leader in the Laurens community who plunged his church into a quest to save their former enemy.

In this spellbinding Southern epic, journalist Courtney Hargrave uncovers the complex events behind the story told in the film, exploring the social factors that drive young men to join hate groups and the difference one person can make in confronting America's oldest sin.

Learning to Speak God from Scratch

Why Sacred Words Are Vanishing—and How We Can Revive Them

Jonathan Merritt

Publicist: Penny Simon | 865-675-1705 | psimon@penguinrandomhouse.com

SUMMARY

The vocabulary of faith is disappearing in America, and in this seminal work, a respected religion writer unpacks "speaking God" through cultural commentary, personal narrative, and an examination of ancient meanings.

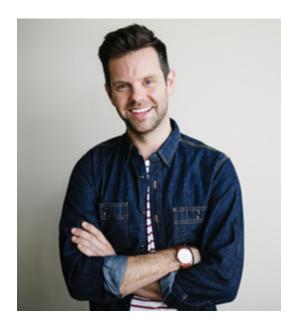

When religion writer Jonathan Merritt moved from the Bible Belt to New York City, he ran into an unexpected language barrier. Whenever conversations turned to faith, his words became stilted. Words, both ancient and modern, that Jonathan had utilized for decades to describe matters of the soul no longer translated to those he encountered.

As America rapidly transitions culturally, modern believers struggle to talk about faith and their relationships with God in ways where understanding of terms like "grace" and "gospel" can no longer be assumed. Some words, like "sin," have become so negative they are nearly conversation enders. The desire to help bridge this communication gap sent Jonathan on a quest to truly identify the loss of a faith vocabulary. He examines the reasons for its disappearance, wonders if sacred words can be saved, and considers the way forward.

AUTHOR BIO

JONATHAN MERRITT is an award-winning writer on religion, culture, and politics. He currently contributes to The Atlantic and The Week, and is a senior columnist for Religion News Service. He has provided commentary for ABC World News, NPR, CNN, MSNBC, Fox News, the New York Times, and others. Jonathan is the author of three acclaimed books and resides in Brooklyn, New York.

SUMMARY

The founder of the popular fair-trade jewelry line Noonday Collection empowers women to take their dreams to the next level, calls them to support one another, and challenges them to make an impact.

In 2015, Noonday Collection was recognized by Inc. magazine as one of the fastest-growing companies in America. Years earlier, when Jessica Honegger stood at a pawnshop counter in Austin, Texas, she had just one goal: to fund the adoption of her son Jack by selling artisan-crafted jewelry. This first step unexpectedly launched Noonday Collection, a fair-trade jewelry line now sold by nearly 2,000 representatives in the United States, while partnering with 29 artisans in 12 countries. Jessica was wildly outside of her comfort zone, emotionally and financially, but she found the courage—if imperfect—to go scared. Now Jessica invites the readers pursuing their dreams or taking on a side-hustle to do the same. She asks women to leave perfect behind and embrace risk, as Jessica did in creating Noonday. Then, she shares how art of sisterhood leads to women working better together. Finally, Jessica encourages women to go out and create impact in meaningful ways.

The Mountains Are Calling

Making the Climb for a Clearer View of God and Ourselves

Jarrett Stephens

Publicist: Beverly Rykerd | 719-268-1935 | brykerd@penguinrandomhouse.com

SUMMARY

A challenge from the teaching pastor of one of America's largest megachurches: Study the mountains in Scripture. Learn what God reveals there about himself and you. Take those truths back to the people.

An overview of the mountaintop experiences mentioned in Scripture (for example, Mount Moriah, Mount Sinai, Mount Olivet, et al.) where God met with his followers for the express purpose of greater clarity on two questions: Who is God? and Who am I? Each chapter provides the reader with a clearer picture of God's character and how those attributes both challenge and encourage us. A reflective question/challenge is included at the conclusion of each chapter for personal or group study.

Walk On

From Pee Wee Dropout to the NFL Sidelines— My Unlikely Story of Football, Purpose, and Following an Amazing God

Ben Malcolmson with Patti McCord

Publicist: Brett Benson | 719-264-5661 bbenson@penguinrandomhouse.com

SUMMARY

Now special assistant to Seattle Seahawks head coach Pete Carroll, Malcolmson recounts his surprising journey into the world of football.

Had anyone told Ben Malcolmson that he'd someday be a wide receiver on the national champion USC Trojan football team-after not playing football since a bad fifth-grade Pee Wee experience-he'd have called them crazy. As a reporter for the Daily Trojan, in the spirit of George Plimpton he participated in walk-on tryouts for the team and was dumbfounded to find himself on the roster. His position on the team never amounted to much, but Ben felt strongly that his faith was inextricably linked to his purpose as a USC Trojan. Years later, working for the Seahawks organization, Ben discovered some astounding results of his unquestioning acts of faith.

With a humble spirit dedicated to leadership and encouragement, Ben Malcolmson is an authentic voice for what can happen when a believer allows God to work in a life.
