

SEED-funded graduate students Estiaque Shourov and Patrick Strohbeen led scientific demonstrations for the general public during the 2018 Engineering Expo, hosted at the University of Wisconsin Madison.

The Kawasaki group also hosted a local middle school teacher, Jessica Fleischman, as part of the Research Experiences for Teachers (RET) program of the Wisconsin MRSEC. With the help of the graduate students in the Kawasaki group, Fleischman developed activities for teaching the properties of crystals for teaching the properties of crystals to her students. Instructions for carrying out the activity will be posted on the University of Wisconsin MRSEC Education website for other educators to implement.

